Diplomatic Box Stolen At Palace Quickly Recovered

Thief Gets No Secret Documents Taken In London While King Absent

LONDON (AP)—Scotland Yard said today a diplomatic box taken from Buckingham Palace was recovered during the night.

Denying London press reports that the box contained "state secrets," Scotland Yard said in an official statement:

"No state papers have been stolen from the diplomatic box which has been missed from Buckingham Palace. It has been recovered intact."

"It contained only correspondence and no state papers or secret documents."

The official statement left the question open as to how the box happened to turn up in a garage can outside the palace early today.

The London Evening News, which broke the story, says it vanished from the room of Maj. Gen. A. C. Salisbury-Jones, marshal of the diplomatic corps.

A member of the royal household, the marshal acts as liaison officer between the court and the diplomatic corps.

A man found on the palace grounds was detained for questioning, but the news says he was not believed to have any connection with the diplomatic burglary.

No member of the royal family was in the palace. The King is at his country estate, Sandringham. The Queen and Princess Margaret are at the family's Balmoral Castle in Scotland with Princess Elizabeth and her two children.

The News says the diplomatic box was found by a sergeant in the Irish Guards. The News adds that the box, which had been locked, had been smashed open and a part of the contents removed.

The room where the theft occurred has two big windows, 10 feet from the ground. It is immediately to the right of the ambassadors' entrance to the palace. If the thief went in that way, he passed within 150 feet of the sentries on duty outside the main gate.

The News says the box was last seen, locked and intact, in Salisbury-Jones' room at 5 p.m. Thursday.

In addition to the armed military sentries, the palace is guarded by special police.

Provisions for the security of the royal family were tightened sharply after a royal gardener had broken into aged Queen Mary's residence—Marlborough House—last June 24 and severely injured two of her housekeepers.

A Buckingham Palace press officer said: "Something happened last night and Scotland Yard is investigating exactly what it was." He declined to elaborate.

Beef Prices Falling To Ease Strain On Budgets

The battered budget of many a Victoria housewife will receive better treatment this week-end as beef prices continue their "gradual drop."

Leading the parade over the past two weeks has been sirloin and T-bone steaks which took a 14-cent tumble from $1.08 a pound at one store to 94 cents a pound today. Another store has it at 92.

Round steak, standing rib roasts, shellbone and other oven cut of beef have declined from a few cents to 10 cents on the pound in the two-week period.

"The expensive cuts have dropped the most," one retailer said today, describing the drop as gradual. "Roasts have not declined as much in price because they are in greater demand."

With good steaks ranging anywhere from $1.05 to $1.35 a pound, depending on where the housewife did her shopping, the meat had been very slow-moving.

Some wholesalers and retailers feel the price will level off now while others think further drops are still in the picture.

300 Miles Of Indo-China Line Unguarded

French Troops Quit Another Key Point

SAIGON, Indo-China (AP)—The French today announced abandonment of the key bastion of Thatkhe, opening another gap in their weakening defence line along the China-Indo-China frontier.

It was the third frontier post abandoned or lost by the French within a month. The withdrawal left some 300 miles of the frontier open to the Viet Minh guerrillas of Communist leader Ho Chi-minh.

A military spokesman said the Thatkhe garrison withdrew from the post Tuesday night toward Langson, French frontier headquarters 50 miles to the southeast.

The frontier withdrawals by the French began after the Viet Minh in mid-September overran the post of Dongkhe, 60 miles northwest of Langson. Oct. 3 the French abandoned Caobang, another major outpost 100 miles northwest of Langson.

The garrison withdrawing from Caobang and a screening column from Thatkhe were caught in mountainous country by Viet Minh forces and most of the 3,500 French and colonial troops were lost. Since then observers had feared an attack on the Thatkhe might result in a similarly disastrous withdrawal.

Abandonment of Thatkhe left only three main garrisons on the mountainous frontier between China and north Viet Nam. The spokesman said he had no information that the withdrawing Thatkhe garrison was being harassed by Viet Minh guerrillas, but said he believed the weather was good and that the French air force, in strength, was covering the "delicate and urgent" withdrawal operation.

Shades Of Past At Ontario Contests

Tommy McArthur used oxen 50 years ago to clear bush in the Collingwood area of Ontario. Today, 75 years old, he is at the 37th International Plowing Match at Alliston, near Toronto. Thursday he showed he was still able to handle a yoke of oxen displayed at the match. These animals are owned by Hubert Carruthers of Alliston. Visa Order Sends Crowds To U.S. European Offices

LONDON (CP)—More than 300 frantic travelers swamped the United States embassy here today with queries about a temporary suspension of visas.

The suspension was ordered from Washington Thursday to give embassies abroad a chance to screen emigrants for Communist, Nazi or Fascist leanings in conformity with a law passed by the last session of Congress.

The embassy notified all air transport and shipping lines that alien passengers must return their visas for "revalidation."

In Paris the visa section of the U.S. embassy was also swamped this morning with persons seeking revalidation of their visas. Priority was given to those already booked to sail.

An embassy spokesman said he believed all of the work could be accomplished without holding up sailings of anyone.

In Frankfurt, Germany, as many as 1,000 Germans faced the loss of visas for the U.S.—with little chance they would get them back soon.

About 90 per cent of all Germans are estimated to have belonged to the Nazi organizations whose members apparently are barred from the U.S. under the new security act.

In Rome, the U.S. Consulate will be open for business tomorrow because of an expected rush of Italians seeking revalidation of their visas. The consulate normally is closed Saturdays.

WASHINGTON (CP)—Further mass detention of aliens seeking to enter the United States appeared today.

peared likely today as government officials sought to write a set of rules defining who may enter under the new anti-subversives law.

All American embassies and consulates—including those in Canada—were ordered by the U.S. government Thursday to hold up the visa of any alien seeking to enter the U.S. until they can check the alien's background.

The order only applies to those Canadians who plan to stay more than six months in the United States. For visits of a shorter duration than six months visas are not required of Canadians.

Canadian citizens resident now in the U.S. are not expected to be investigated under the order. But in Montreal, the American consulate "advised" Canadians in the Dominion now who hold U.S. visas to submit them to U.S. consular officers "for examination and revalidation." Failure to do this might result in "embarrassment" and delays at a port of entry, they said.

The anti-subversive law, passed last month over the veto of President Truman, specifically bars from the U.S. present or former members of any section, subsidiary, branch, affiliate or subdivision of an "totalitarian" party.

PIRATES ROB VANCOUVERITE
VANCOUVER (CP)—Two pirates early today robbed a fishing-boat owner of $50 and made their getaway in a black speedboat.

Norman Towers said he was asleep aboard his boat, the Dean-Den, when two men came aboard and relieved him of the cash.

The pirates then ran along the wharf, jumped into a speedboat and sped off. It was believed a third man was waiting in the speedboat.

DOUBLE TROUBLE
It's Bad Combination Friday And The 13th

If you're hoping for an introduction to the Lady today you're due for a disappointment.

She's taking a day off—the second and last one she'll have this year.

That's what the calendars say. Lady Luck is "out" to anyone calling on this 13th day of October. It's a Friday, remember?

You really haven't a kick because the last time she slammed the door in your face was way back in the second week of January.

That's what the calendars say. So breathe a little easier. Just take it easy. The 14th is but a few hours away.

Then you can step in and renew old acquaintances. Life again will be a bowl of cherries because the Lady will be back for the rest of the year.

That's what the calendars say.

Pair Of R.C.N. Warships Join Huge Bombardment

TOKYO (CP)—Destroyers of the Royal Canadian Navy, part of a force of 37 United Nations warships, today hammered at North Korean targets in a seaborne strike against Communist supply lines.

The naval war release issued at Tokyo did not identify the destroyers, but it indicated that two of the three Canadian warships in Korean waters took part in the bombardment which strewn destruction along a 105-mile stretch just south of the Soviet border for the second straight day.

The release said ships in the bombardment group included the British cruiser Ceylon "and British, Australian and Canadian light forces in addition to the U.S. battleship Missouri and the U.S.S. Worcester."

Canadian ships in Korean waters are the destroyers Cayuga, Sioux and Athabaskan. The Cayuga, commanded by Cmdr. Paul Taylor of Victoria, B.C., was in action off Korea's west coast Wednesday night. This would indicate that the Cayuga, under Capt. J. V. Brock of Winnipeg, and the Athabaskan under Cmdr. R. P. Welland of McReary, Man., took part in today's action.

The war release was also bare of details of the actual part taken by Canadian ships in the bombardment but destroyers, because of the comparatively short range of their 4.7-inch guns, often are employed for close-in work, such as hitting enemy shore batteries and smaller targets ashore.

They are also used for screening the bigger ships such as battleships and aircraft carriers. Speculation still persisted that the combined naval big-gun and carrier-plane strike—the second in two days far up the Korean east coast—might lead to an Allied landing.

16-INCH SHELLS
Shells from "the Mighty Mo's" 16-inch guns crashed onto coastal targets at more than seven tons a minute.

On the ground fronts, Allied spearheads met increasingly heavy resistance in their push toward Pyongyang, the Red capital near the west coast. Two Communist divisions were reported racing from the Chongjin peninsula to help the defenders of Kumsong, 75 miles southeast of Pyongyang.

At the west end of that front, in an area that lies 65 to 75 miles southeast of Pyongyang, a fierce and confusing battle raged.

American spearheads within 65 miles of Pyongyang were at grips with Red troops. An estimated 20,000 Communists fought south of them and two Red divisions were reported moving in from the west.

Thailand Unit, Dutch Force Off For Korea

TOKYO (UP)—Advance elements of Thailand's expeditionary force for Korea have arrived in Japan, it was announced today.

Twelve officers and 30 enlisted men—the vanguard of an eventual force of 4,000—landed at Tokyo's Haneda airport Thursday and went immediately to the replacement training centre at Camp Drake, near Tokyo.

Thailand is the fifth member of the United Nations to contribute ground forces for the Korean campaign. American, British, Australian and Philippines troops already are in Korea. The American contingent includes the Puerto Rican 65th Regiment.

AMSTERDAM, Holland (BUP)—Two infantry divisions of Dutch volunteers will sail next week from Rotterdam to join the United Nations forces in Korea, it was announced here today.

Mine Welfare Benefits Told By Union Head

WASHINGTON (AP)—Miners' hospital and disability benefits which the United States coal industry estimates will cost $2,000,000 a month were announced today.

The United Mine Workers' welfare and retirement fund, headed by U.M.W. president John L. Lewis, announced schedules of benefits for totally-disabled coal diggers, older widows and dependent children of deceased miners, and the extension of hospital and medical services to widows and adult dependents.

For the time being, this schedule completes the program of benefits to come out of the $150,000,000-a-year welfare fund collected through a 30-cent royalty on each ton of coal produced. The contract signed last March 5 boosted the royalty from 20 to 30 cents a ton.

Horsemeat As Hamburger, Ottawa Charge

OTTAWA (CP)—Five Ottawa district merchants are being charged with selling horsemeat as hamburger and other table foods, the federal health department announced today.

They are accused under the Food and Drugs Act with having included horsemeat in hamburger, sausages, minced beef and minute steaks.

The investigation followed the discovery by food and drug inspectors that horsemeat "hamburgers" were being sold at the Central Canada Exhibition here last August.

Dozen Beer To Cost 15c More Next Monday

Beer prices in British Columbia will be increased 15 cents for a dozen pints on Monday.

The increase, announced today by Attorney-General Gordon Wismer after the provincial cabinet had approved recommendations from Liquor Commissioner W. F. Kennedy, affects draught beer sale as well as bottled beer.

The 10-cent glass of beer in licensed premises will remain but the glass will be reduced by one-half ounce from eight ounces.

The increased results from increased excise tax on malt imposed by the national government in September.

A carton of beer will cost $2.35 instead of $2.20, while ale and stout will sell for $2.55 instead of $2.40.

The price of bottled beer in licensed premises will be increased by 2 cents a bottle, to 27 cents, plus the 1-cent sales tax.

Because it will take beer parlors operators about a month to buy new glasses for draught beer sale, they will be allowed to continue use of the eight-ounce size until delivery of the new glasses is made.

B.C. Ready For A.R.P. Lead From Ottawa

Premier Byron Johnson's special committee on civil defence is continuing to take stock of A.R.P. equipment throughout the province while awaiting direction from Ottawa on home-front precautions in the event of attack.

The committee intends organizing skeleton civil defence network in the municipalities and unorganized territories which could be expanded quickly in the event of an emergency.

Action is being withheld for instructions from the national government though, so that unification of organization is assured.

It is the nucleus of the proposed army which is now the concern of the members of the committee.

Continue Smelly

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's smelly sulphate pulp mills, such as the one recently built near Nanaimo, will continue to offend for some time to come. That's the finding of the B.C. Research Council.

In its sixth annual report, the council says, "Though the problem has been given extensive study in several countries, there is still no satisfactory means of eliminating the odors."

CANADA ADVANCE PARTY SOON ON PACIFIC BASE

FORT LEWIS, Wash. (CP)—An advance party of some 300 officers and men representing all units of Canada's Special Army Brigade arrived at this big Washington State army base today, and plans call for its departure for an undisclosed Pacific base within a few days.

As the advance party of Canada's contribution to ground forces of the United Nations, this group will be responsible for the preparation of overseas camps—possibly on Okinawa—pending arrival of the main body of the brigade of about 8,000 men.

During the last week, a group of 100 active force personnel has been preparing the Canadian section of this 50,000-man camp. Sleeping quarters, kitchens, service men's clubs and transport arrangements now are complete for this first large movement of Canadians.

Borstal Plan For Youths At Oakalla Farm

Arrangements have been completed for operation of a closed Borstal unit at Oakalla Prison Farm for young offenders, it was announced today by Attorney-General Gordon Wismer.

Provincial cabinet has approved the following appointments to staff:

T. A. Camm, assistant deputy warden at Oakalla, will be in charge; B. J. C. McCabe, assistant provincial probation officer, will be classification officer; J. W. Lane, of Oakalla staff, will be custodial officer; W. McD. Holland, Vancouver, will be vocational officer; Everett Cowan, Vancouver, will be educational officer.

Mr. Wismer said the plan is to keep young prisoners sent to Oakalla separate from hardened criminals in a building which has accommodation for 100.

The inmates will be given the same treatment as offenders sent to New Haven Borstal School, except they will not have any outside freedom.

They will receive training in vocations for which they are best suited, and they will be screened from time to time with a view to transfer to New Haven.

DAMAGE HEAVY TO BIRDS

Ducks At 10,000 Feet Turn Back Airliner

By United Press
Birds, ducks, lightning and wind ganged up on four big airline transports in the United States Thursday night, but the high-flying pilots brought their planes and several score passengers through unscathed.

An American Airlines pilot flew his four-engine DC-4 into a "flight of ducks" at about 10,000 feet over Iowa Thursday night on a flight to the west coast from Chicago. He spotted so many duck bodies about and with such force that he decided to play safe and return to Chicago for possible repairs. One engine nacelle was dented and the passengers had to transfer to another plane.

A second American Airlines pilot, flying a two-engine transport from Rochester, N.Y., to Newark, N.J., ran into another flock of birds. He turned back to Buffalo, N.Y., for a quick checkup, found there was no damage, and took off again after a 25 minute delay.

At La Guardia Field, N.Y., Thursday, a bolt of lightning struck within three feet of a Trans World Airline plane just about to take off with 13 passengers for a flight to Germany. The bolt bowled over ground crew members, but nobody was hurt, although the lightning tore dozens of small holes in the landing apron.

Mechanics could find no damage to the four-engine Constellation but officials ordered another plane to make the flight. The precautionary move delayed the flight six hours while another plane was readied.

Horsemeat As Hamburger, Ottawa Charge

OTTAWA (CP)—Five Ottawa district merchants are being charged with selling horsemeat as hamburger and other table foods, the federal health department announced today.

They are accused under the Food and Drugs Act with having included horsemeat in hamburger, sausages, minced beef and minute steaks.

The investigation followed the discovery by food and drug inspectors that horsemeat "hamburgers" were being sold at the Central Canada Exhibition here last August.

The announcement came a few hours after the police had confirmed press reports that a diplomatic box which vanished from the palace had turned up early today in a nearby garbage can.

Denying London newspaper reports that the box was broken open and important secret papers stolen, Scotland Yard said it had been recovered intact. The police also asserted the box contained no state secrets.

The announcement that Monro had been detained said: "Douglas Monro, aged 26, seaman, of Swinton Street, Kings Cross, late of Grafton Townhead, Glasgow, will be charged tonight with burglariously breaking and entering Buckingham Palace this morning and stealing a dispatch box."

It was not disclosed immediately whether Monro was the man who was found in the palace grounds earlier in the day by detectives investigating the disappearance of the box.

A few minutes after the Scotland Yard announcement Monro was taken into the Cannon Row police station and formally charged. He will appear at the Bow Street court tomorrow morning.

Sensation accounts of the incident in the London press had led today with queries about a temporary suspension of visas.

The suspension was ordered from Washington Thursday to give embassies abroad a chance to screen emigrants for Communist, Nazi or Fascist leanings in conformity with a law passed by the last session of Congress.

The embassy notified all air transport and shipping lines that alien passengers must return their visas for "revalidation."

In Paris the visa section of the U.S. embassy was also swamped this morning with persons seeking revalidation of their visas. Priority was given to those already booked to sail.

In Frankfurt, Germany, as many as 1,000 Germans faced the loss of visas for the U.S.—with little chance they would get them back soon.

MASS DETENTIONS

WASHINGTON (CP)—Further mass detention of aliens seeking to enter the United States appeared likely today as government officials sought to write a set of rules defining who may enter under the new anti-subversives law.

All American embassies and consulates—including those in Canada—were ordered by the U.S. government Thursday to hold up the visa of any alien seeking to enter the U.S. until they can recheck the alien's background.

The order only applies to those Canadians who plan to stay more than six months in the United States. For visits of a shorter duration than six months visas are not required of Canadians.

In Montreal, the American consulate "advised" Canadians in the Dominion now who hold U.S. visas to submit them to U.S. consular officers "for examination and revalidation."

He said the work would take about four days. Fluorescent lighting will be installed in the offices and some partitions are to be erected.

The hotel building is vacant now. Furnishings were sold at auction by the owner on Wednesday and Thursday.

The police force, which has taken over the provincial police, leased the hotel building when office space in the drill hall at the rear of the Legislative Buildings was considered inadequate.

In addition to headquarters offices, the hotel will provide living accommodation for unmarried members of the force stationed in this area.

Victoria district offices of the police force will remain on Superior Street.

Gradual Trend Led By Steaks

The battered budget of many a Victoria housewife will receive better treatment this week-end as beef prices continue their "gradual drop."

Leading the parade over the past two weeks has been sirloin and T-bone steaks which took a 14-cent tumble from $1.08 a pound at one store to 94 cents a pound today. Another store has it at 92.

Round steak, standing rib roasts, shellbone and other oven cut of beef have declined from a few cents to 10 cents on the pound in the two-week period.

"The expensive cuts have dropped the most," one retailer said today, describing the drop as gradual. "Roasts have not declined as much in price because they are in greater demand."

With good steaks ranging anywhere from $1.05 to $1.35 a pound, depending on where the housewife did her shopping, the meat had been very slow-moving.

Some wholesalers and retailers feel the price will level off now while others think further drops are still in the picture.

HOUSEWIVES STRIKE

In many centres across Canada, housewives have been on an enforced strike against high-priced roasts and steaks. In Toronto, round and sirloin steak also dropped 14 cents on the pound, which brought it down to 75 cents a pound this week.

Wholesale price of beef declined because of a more plentiful supply of cattle and the fact that U.S. buyers cannot bid as high as they did 10 days ago when their money was worth more.

Mounties Move In New Offices Next Week

B.C. headquarters of the R.C.M.P. will be moved to the Windermere Hotel at the end of next week.

Assistant Commissioner A. T. Belcher said today carpenters and electricians will start minor renovation work on the hotel building Monday and "we'll be in there as soon as they are finished."

He said the work would take about four days. Fluorescent lighting will be installed in the offices and some partitions are to be erected.

The hotel building is vacant now. Furnishings were sold at auction by the owner on Wednesday and Thursday.

Appeal Is Filed In Vice Case

MONTREAL (CP)—Attorneys today filed an appeal in Court of Appeals against a decision that would compel witnesses in the current vice-probe investigations to testify even if their evidence might incriminate them.

The decision was given by Mr. Justice Francois Caron, conducting the judicial inquiry launched by 73 petitioners who allege Montreal police have permitted gambling and other vice conditions.

The appeal was taken on behalf of Julius Silberberg, Montreal merchant. Last Sept. 27 he refused, as a witness, to answer a question he considered might incriminate him.

32 YANKEE PLAYERS GET $5,737 EACH ON SERIES

CINCINNATI (AP)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler today split up the players' share of the receipts from the World Series.

The world champion New York Yankees gave full shares of $5,737.95 to 32 players, coaches and others. Thirteen others received partial shares.

Philadelphia Phils, National League champions and losers to the Yanks in four straight games of the World Series, allotted full shares of $4,081.34 to 32 members of their roster. Nine others came in for partial shares.

Walter Mulberry, secretary of baseball, who made the announcement of the split, said the shares were "a little on the low side," but he explained it was due to the fact players of both clubs were generous in deciding who should share in the money and for how much.

CLUE TO POISONER

Police Find Strychnine Killed Oak Bay Pets

Proof that strychnine was used by the Oak Bay "pet poisoner" has given Oak Bay police a clue to aid in tracing the culprit.

Police said today they believe the person responsible is throwing out poisoned meat to dogs and cats from a car. The meat is probably hamburger.

Seven dogs and one cat have been poisoned in the municipality, mostly in the southwest sector.

Latest poisoning Thursday night is the spring spaniel owned by Mrs. C. G. Bunch, 1091 Hampshire Road. The dog disappeared for a time and when it returned it was frothing at the mouth.

Mrs. Bunch said her pet was still showing ill effects this morning.

Police are advising owners to keep their pets on their own property as much as possible.

OCTOBER MORN

IN BETWEEN the recent welcome showers I have been enjoying the tantalizing bits of Indian summer which Mother Nature sends us at this season of the year as a preparatory prelude to winter. In between showers we have had tastes of those lovely golden, hazy periods when, as Thomas Hood put it:

"I saw old Autumn in the misty morn Stand shadowless like silence."

Those are the mornings when you go out into the garden and find your way barred by almost invisible barriers strung from bush to bush and tree to tree by spiders, who balefully glare as you unintentionally destroy their cobwebby engineering projects.

DOUBLE RAINBOW

COMING HOME from town one afternoon last week one of those rare phenomena which occasionally greet the eye at this season of the year—a double rainbow—made me stop and gaze in wonderment. Seldom have I seen such a perfect arch, such well-defined colors as were in the main spectrum that spanned the sky, while the other one, which covered only about half the distance, was just as clear.

I was amused at a little girl who, seeing me gaze skyward, asked me what I was looking at. When I pointed it out, she ran off indoors calling her mother to come and look at the pretty painted sky—which is, perhaps, as good a description of a rainbow as any.

SUNSETS GORGEOUS

AT THIS TIME of the year Nature's palette not only paints in watercolor "chef d'oeuvres" in the shape of rainbows, she gives us the gorgeous, impressionistic sunsets that leave bold, sweeping patterns in scarlet and flame, purple and gold, all across the firmament.

When in the mood, she draws her own iron curtain of grey cloud from the darkening skies, to reveal to us that masterpiece of heavenly illumination, the harvest moon. And what more thrilling sight is there than that great, reddish-gold orb peeping up over the edge of Gonzales Hill or coming up out of the ocean, and gradually edging its way up the sky, getting smaller and paler, until it reaches its nightly zenith among the stars?

WINGED VISITORS

THESE ARE the days, too, when all sorts of unexpected, but welcome, visitors pay a call on the garden. On Thanksgiving Sunday we suddenly became aware of dozens of adorable little birds, with black caps and snowy breasts, which chattered about and played topsy-turvy games in the cypress trees, standing on their heads while they pecked at the cones. As they were new to us, I called a friend who is an expert on ornithology and, from my description, she deduced that they were snow buntings—a name that seemed perfect for those tiny, lovely little guests. For two days they stayed in our neighborhood, cutting such capers and chattering endlessly, before they disappeared. We came to the sorrowful conclusion that they merely called in on us on their way south for the winter, and are hoping that some day they will come back again.

BIRDS GO SOUTH

ALMOST ANY day now we can expect to hear the sound of wild geese honking overhead and to see their perfect V formation in the skies above the Oak Bay golf links, on their annual exodus to warmer climes.

And the dotting of the lawn with fallen oak leaves calling us to clear them, the turning of the maples from green to yellow and gold, the soft scarlet of the sumacs and the mountain ash—all are reminders, sad and otherwise, that we have reached the fall of the year, that season of which Shelley wrote:

"There is a harmony
In Autumn, and a lustre in its sky,
Which thro' the Summer is not heard or seen."

Canada, U.S. To Learn How To Survey For Alaska Line

OTTAWA (CP)—A conference of Canadian-United States officials has decided to recommend to the two governments methods of surveying the route of a proposed rail line to link the U.S. proper with Alaska through British Columbia.

An external affairs department announcement only said the officials decided on "certain recommendations" as to how such a location survey might be carried out.

Government sources said they expect further meetings will be held later.

The officials did not deal with the question of whether or not the line should be built, but was concerned only at this stage with the possibilities of surveying a route. The proposed rail line, if built, would link Prince George, 500 miles north of Vancouver, with eastern Alaska.

Representatives of the U.S. Department of the Interior and Army Engineers attended the conference here with officials of the Canadian external affairs, transport, resources, mines, finance and defence departments.

Wounded Victoria Pair Now In Good Condition

Condition of the two elderly men involved in Tuesday's bloody stabbing affray in the 2500 block of Cook Street was reported as "good" by Royal Jubilee Hospital attendants today.

Anton Konkin, age 52, of 715 Wilson Street, has been charged with assaulting 70-year-old John Novak, 2571 Cook Street, and occasioning him grievous bodily harm.

Police investigations have revealed no trail of blood between the two houses in which each of the wounded men was found.

Novak was found in his home suffering from three knife wounds. Konkin, police said, was driven out of that house by women and went to the basement of a house opposite where police found him sitting in a chair with three abdominal stab wounds and pools of blood around him.

A blood-stained hunting knife was found behind a box in the basement. The sheath was found in the Novak home.

R.C.M.P. APPOINTMENTS
R.C.M.P. Assistant Commissioner A. T. Belcher has announced Insp. W. J. Butler, in charge of the Prince George Division, will go to Toronto this week as a federal security officer. He will be replaced by Insp. A. T. Lashmar of Vancouver. No replacement has been named to take over that division.

Good Attendances At 'Y' Classes

Nearly all classes are now under way at the Y.M.C.A., with this year's turnout the best for several years.

Several new crafts are being taught in the hobbycraft division this year.

On Monday night choral classes and public speaking will begin.

Two rooms have to be used for the leathercraft classes, as the classes have been so popular. There has been a rapid increase in the enrollment of the physical classes. Noon-classes are held Tuesday and Thursday, and young men's classes Tuesday and Friday at 8:15 in the evening.

Weight-lifting classes are popular. Swimming classes have had an extremely heavy registration. Forty-two women take part in the women's swimming class held every Wednesday at 5 in the evening.

Volleyball will get under way Monday and Thursday evenings at 7 in the evening. The "Y" hopes to turn out a top-notch volleyball league this autumn.

On Western Tour Of Cosmopolitan Clubs

Dwight J. Merriam, executive secretary of the Cosmopolitan International will arrive in Victoria Saturday during his tour of all Cosmopolitan clubs in the Western Canada Federation.

The Victoria club will hold a special meeting to welcome the visitor Monday at the Club Sirocco instead of the regular Thursday meeting.

Mobilization In U.S. To Be Stepped Up

Joint Chiefs Of Staff Believe Armed Forces Goals Inadequate

WASHINGTON (UP)—The U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff prepared plans today for a new stepped-up mobilization program in the belief that present goals for the armed forces are inadequate.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs, said the revised program will be presented to President Truman for submission to Congress as soon as it is completed.

Under the present program, the armed forces hope to reach a total strength of 3,000,000 officers and men by next June 30. But Bradley gave this appraisal of the June 30 goal in a broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting System Thursday night:

"Obviously, with the world-wide commitments that this country has, and the present world situation, even these forces will not be adequate. The joint chiefs are working on the total number of forces to present to the President, who will in turn present them to Congress, as soon as they are ready."

Bradley gave no details. But he did say that the new program would require more money as well as men.

"I am sure that if this is not done," he added, "our chances of preserving the peace will be much less."

75,000 Participate In Company Birthday Party

With 75,000 other persons throughout the continent, a group of Victorians participated today in one of the largest birthday parties on record, when members of the Prudential Insurance Company of America staff here celebrated the company's 75th anniversary at the Empress Hotel.

Simultaneously in more than 400 cities of the United States and Canada similar observations were held, and all were conducted by a closed circuit broadcast with headquarters in Newark, N.J.

The celebration, which took the form of a luncheon on the Atlantic coast, and an 8.15 breakfast in Victoria and other Pacific Standard Time zone cities.

Here in Victoria Duncan MacPhail, head of the local office, presided at the gathering of staff members, their wives, and guests.

A huge cake, bearing the inscription, "Greetings Prudential's 75th Anniversary," was cut by Miss Mary Simpson, deputy superintendent of insurance for the province of British Columbia.

FROM NEWARK OFFICE

Sharp at 8.30 the broadcast program began with an address by Carol M. Shanks, company president, speaking from the head office party in Newark. He traced the company's growth to become one of the world's great enterprises with 26,000,000 policy holders and $5,000,000,000 invested.

Robert M. Green, vice-president in charge of Canadian operations, spoke to the 26 company gatherings in Canada on a closed circuit from Toronto. He was followed by representatives in Halifax, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

In Canada the celebrations had a double significance as the anniversary coincided with the opening of the company's head office in Toronto. In the 41 years the company has been operating in Canada it has gained 1,000,000 policy holders, who hold more than $1,000,000,000 worth of life insurance.

Mr. MacPhail stated this event marked the first time the company had been able to join in a simultaneous celebration. Technical arrangements for the broadcast were made here by CTVI under Morris V. Chesnut, manager.

Among the guests were Mrs. Nancy Hodges, Speaker of the B.C. Legislature; Stuart Keate, publisher of the Victoria Times; Tom Taylor, Daily Colonist assistant editor; C. D. Craig, Inspector for the provincial department of insurance; R. T. Hoard and Mr. Chesnut.

New Dogma Seen As Error

YORK, Eng. (Reuter)—The Archbishop of York, Most Rev. Cyril Garbett, believes the Pope's intention to proclaim the bodily assumption of the Virgin Mary into Heaven as a dogma of the Roman Catholic Church will raise a new obstacle to Christian unity.

In countries where Roman Catholicism is often the only alternative to atheism, educated men "on the threshold of the faith" might withdraw from it rather than accept a dogma which their reason rejected, he said Thursday in his presidential address to the convocation of York.

The Church of England could not accept a dogma which had neither scriptural, historical nor doctrinal foundation, he added.

Mine Welfare Benefits Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—Miners' hospital and disability benefits which the United States coal industry estimates will cost $2,000,000 a month were announced today.

The United Mine Workers' welfare and retirement fund, headed by U.M.W. president John L. Lewis, announced schedules of benefits for totally-disabled coal diggers, older widows and dependent children of deceased miners, and the extension of hospital and medical services to widows and adult dependents.

Oak Bay Art Club Forms New Class

The Oak Bay Art Club will open its winter term next Monday at 8 at Oak Bay Community Centre. Members of the club are invited to bring two sketches made during the summer months and criticisms will be given on their work by Mrs. M. Barnes.

An extra class for practice in figure drawing is in course of formation. Anyone interested in this branch of study may contact the president, Miss M. Nickerson, for details. The new group will meet in the Community Centre, adjoining the Technical School on Oak Bay Avenue, on the second and fourth Thursday evenings.

Undefended Gap In Indo-China Border

French Withdrawal Leaves 300 Miles Unprotected Against Red Guerrillas

SAIGON, Indo-China (AP)—The French today announced abandonment of the key bastion of Thatkhe, opening another gap in their weakening defence line along the China-Indo-China frontier.

Thailand Unit Off For Korea

TOKYO (UP)—Advance elements of Thailand's expeditionary force for Korea have arrived in Japan, it was announced today.

Twelve officers and 30 enlisted men—the vanguard of an eventual force of 4,000—landed at Tokyo's Haneda airport Thursday and went immediately to the replacement training centre at Camp Drake, near Tokyo.

Thailand is the fifth member of the United Nations to contribute ground forces for the Korean campaign. American, British, Australian and Philippine troops already are in Korea. The American contingent includes the Puerto Rican 65th Regiment.

DUTCH TO SAIL

AMSTERDAM, Holland (BUP)—Two infantry divisions of Dutch volunteers will sail next week from Rotterdam to join the United Nations forces in Korea, it was announced here today.

It was the third frontier port abandoned or lost by the French within a month. The withdrawal left some 300 miles of the frontier open to the Viet Minh guerrillas of Communist leader Ho Chi-minh.

A military spokesman said the Thatkhe garrison withdrew from the post Tuesday night toward Langson, French frontier headquarters 50 miles to the southeast.

The frontier withdrawals by the French began after the Viet Minh in mid-September overran the post of Dongkhe, 60 miles northwest of Langson. Oct. 3 the French abandoned Caobang, another major outpost 100 miles northwest of Langson.

The garrison withdrawing from Caobang and a screening column from Thatkhe were caught in mountainous country by Viet Minh forces and most of the 3,500 French and colonial troops were lost. Since then observers had feared an attack on the Thatkhe might result in a similarly disastrous withdrawal.

Abandonment of Thatkhe left only three main garrisons on the mountainous frontier between China and north Viet nam.

Shades Of Past At Ontario Contests

Tommy McArthur used oxen 50 years ago to clear bush in the Collingwood area of Ontario. Today, 75 years old, he is at the 37th International Plowing Match at Alliston, near Toronto. Thursday he showed he was still able to handle a yoke of oxen displayed at the match. These animals are owned by Hubert Carruthers of Nipissing. Final prize contests were being staged today. —(CP Photo)

BBC's Head Of TV Quits As Play Criticized

LONDON (AP)—Norman Collins resigned today as the BBC's head of television after a controversy over the showing of a play which was bitterly attacked by the Labor press.

Collins said he would issue a statement later. A BBC official said the resignation had nothing to do with the controversy.

The play, Val Gielud's "Party Manners," was televised Oct. 1. The Daily Herald complained that it "reeked with snobishness" and urged that a scheduled repeat showing be canceled. BBC canceled the repeat.

Lord Simon of Wythenshawe, chairman of the BBC, disclosed in a statement that it was he who ordered cancellation of the repeat show.

Lack Of Students May End Course

Possibility that the Spanish course will not be given at night school this year unless more students enrol is seen by George Anstey, director of the Greater Victoria evening classes.

"We cannot understand the lack of pupils for the course this year as last year we had a very big enrolment," he said.

Anxious to give all those interested in the subject an opportunity, the class will be kept open this week, in the hope that sufficient registrations will be received by tonight to warrant keeping the course in the night school curriculum.

Registrations will be accepted at tonight's class at Victoria High School at 7.30.

Says One Thing—Means Another

IT WAS NO SURPRISE TO NEWS-paper readers on this continent, still less to experienced diplomats, that Russia's promised "partial support" for proposals to strengthen the United Nations' capacity to handle aggressors has turned out to be almost complete opposition.

The proposals were embodied in a resolution placed before the United Nations Assembly last Sept. 20 by U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson. They provide, in part, for a calling of the General Assembly within 24 hours if Security Council action on a breach of the peace is stalled by a veto; for creation of a U.N. fact-finding agency to make on-the-spot studies of international conflicts; for establishment of a U.N. force through earmarking by members of a part of their armed forces for service in the joint cause.

It needs little study of these three points to realize that while the Soviet Union could not afford to refuse point blank to give lip service to any proposal for the promotion of peace, it could likewise never agree to any of these proposals.

tions. Evasion of the veto, implied in the first proposal, could not be countenanced by Russia, even in the interests of world peace. Fact-finding committees are not popular in a country where the technique of the Big Lie is standard procedure. An armed United Nations force with enough power to ensure compliance with U.N. orders would not be greeted with any enthusiasm by a nation which depends on the largest standing army in the world for much of its political strength.

It will matter little to Mr. Vishinsky and the Soviet leaders whom he represents that almost all the U.N. members outside the Communist bloc have given their support to the plan. He no doubt will continue to evade the challenge thrown on Wednesday by Canada's External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson, who called on Russia to back up claims of peaceful intentions by proof in actions. But it is to be hoped the democracies will not feel obliged to wait for that proof before going ahead with their plans to strengthen the U.N. against the possibility of another Korea.

'Purges' Repugnant To Us

ENERGETIC AND EXTREMELY vocal Premier Smallwood, the head of the government in Canada's tenth province, was annoyed the other day when Mr. Samuel Grover, a member of the Newfoundland Legislature for White Bay, "spoke out of turn" and exposed himself to the charge of "an inexcusable violation of party (Liberal) discipline."

Mr. Grover was complaining about what he called the "gross neglect" of his district on the eastern side of the province's northern peninsula. He dared to say so in "open meeting." Whereupon Premier Smallwood forthwith "purged" him—or, to be more correct, expelled him from the party—but later "killed" the expulsion dictum after the offending member retracted.

Under our democratic system and time-honored parliamentary procedure no government, whether its majority be slim or large, should object to honest criticism from its supporters. An ivory-tower attitude by a few is not good for the many.

We alluded in these columns the other day to the report that a former C.C.F. member of the House of Commons at Ottawa was slated for a species of "purge" because of his extreme leftist proclivities. Of course we frowned upon the idea—regardless of the repugnant ideology to which the alleged "purge" subscribes.

But when a Liberal Premier assumes the role of strict political disciplinarian in a land of free speech, it is, to use a colloquialism, "a bit thick."

Aiding U.S.-Canadian Integration

A PART FROM THE PRACTICAL saving in time and convenience, training of Canadian troops at Fort Lewis, Washington, for U.N. duties emphasizes another development in co-ordinated defence preparations on this continent. A relatively short time ago attention was drawn to the difficulties invited by differences in arms and equipment among the various forces that uphold the ideals of western democracies. Steps have been taken to minimize those differences through standardization of arms.

In so far as the Canadian brigade now being made ready for service outside the country has been recruited for United Nations work, it appears sensible as well as practical to prepare it along lines that facilitate integration of Canadian and American forces. Certainly in the present instance, and probably for some time to come, the defence or combat units of the two countries will be pursuing identical courses in the U.N.'s name.

Any inclination there might be to criticize use of Fort Lewis facilities on the grounds that Canadians should not have to go beyond their own boundaries to train can be met with merely a brief reference to precedent. Not only did some of this country's paratroopers train in Fort Benning, Ga., but airmen from all parts of the Commonwealth trained in Canada under conditions which have justified resumption of the program followed in the Second World War.

Canada and the United States will, and should, preserve their separate identities in many spheres. It is the course of common sense, however, to see that unnecessary differences in defence methods are eliminated. Better understanding should be promoted by the Fort Lewis experience between men who are joined in the same task.

Some Bits And Pieces

A pedestrian is the one who had better learn to think fast on his feet.

As the life of the party, Henry Wallace wasn't much. It now remains to be seen whether or not he will be the death of it.

It is sometimes hard for the hot-headed man to accept the cold facts.

While looking over the necessities of life—food, clothing, etc., it's hard to convince yourself that the best things in life are free.

Trying To Win By Diplomacy What They Lost In Fighting

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

from New York

IF YOU didn't know the Russians so well, you might conclude that their "peace" proposals for Korea had a faint air of reasonableness about them. They talk of new national elections to be supervised by a United Nations committee, after all U.N. armies have been withdrawn from Korea.

They want the committee to include the countries which border Korea—in other words, Russia and Red China. Luckily, the rest of the U.N. already has recognized the booby-traps in this plan and gives no sign of accepting it. But the Russian motives behind it will be expressed in other forms, too. And we must be steadily on guard to see them for what they are.

The Soviet plan for Korea is nothing more than an effort to salvage by diplomatic means what the North Koreans have lost in the field. The proposals were not made while Korean Communists were winning, only when they faced total defeat.

Furthermore, if the plan for elections were sincerely meant, it's obvious it could have been put into effect at any time in the past five years. It wasn't necessary to fight a war to win the privilege of holding such elections.

Blossat

If that balloting were held on Russian terms, it might well be disastrous for the freedom of Korea. With Russia and Red China on the suggested U.N. committee, the Communists could block every attempt to conduct honest, really free elections. Damaging delays would occur and Korea's future would be clouded in confusion.

There may be some in the U.N. who feel the West is merely prolonging the agony by keeping armies pressing northward in Korea when an offer has been made to end the fighting.

But it was not the West which resorted to arms; it was Russia. The Soviet leaders chose that field as the decisive one for Korea. That being so, the decision must now be taken there.

NO INTERFERENCE

When the Communist armies have been finally crushed, then the U.N. must set about organizing the whole of Korea for real national elections unfettered by Russian interference. It must give the country the unity it was intended to have from the start, and must boldly grapple with the tasks of economic reconstruction in that war-devastated land.

Nothing but complete surrender should be listened to from the Russian side. If that surrender is not volunteered, it must be enforced by weight of arms. And the Soviet Union must be barred from having the slightest voice in Korea's future.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

MY NEIGHBOR, Mrs. Noggins, brought me today a copy of a Canadian government advertisement which read: "You will never miss the money you put into a government annuity." Said she:

Hutchison

"It's lucky you won't miss the money because you won't get it back. Not wot you put in anyways. Years ago I bought a government annuity—that was before I learned about heconomics—and now they're payin' me back every dollar they owe but the dollars is worth only about four bits each."

WOT the government done to me is all quite legal, as Uncle 'Erbert told the judge in Liverpool, but they put 'im in jail if they did wot gov'mints do with other people's money.

"But, mindin', the gov'mint is actin' mighty generous. On account of the bonds you bought 10 years ago is worth only about 50 cent on the dollar the gov'mint is offerin' you the chance to buy still more bonds to make up your losses. And since prices are still risin' and the value of bonds still shrinkin' every day, you'd better buy a lot more bonds. And a lot more life insurance for your widow."

WELL, sir, the gov'mint is certainly encouragin' people to save their money so they'll 'ave less when they're old and 'elpless than they 'ave today. But a person who 'as saved 'is money like I've done should be very proud and 'appy to know that 'e's bin selected for the 'igh honor of bein' the livin' sacrifice to the god of national liquidity.

"No one should complain if the gov'mint grabs 'alf 'is savin's. The gov'mint probably needs it more than you do. And it serves you right for savin' your money."

EVERYBODY ort to know by now—the gov'mint 'as made it clear enough that it's unpatriotic to save and if you will go on doin' it you must pay the penalty. Any patriotic citizen will spend all 'is money and give the taxpayers the privilege of keepin' 'im in 'is old age. But there's still a few subversive folks around 'as insist on savin' and buyin' gov'mint bonds or life insurance and stubbornly refuse to let the state support 'em. There won't be any of these enemies of society much longer. Inflation is mercifully extinguishin' 'em and good ridance.

THE country won't be safe till the gov'mint is keepin' everybody, which means everybody is keepin' everybody else. When everybody is pensioned ort and there's no taxpayers left to pay the bill we can all rest in peace, though 'ungry. I looks for'ard confidentially to the day when everybody will 'ave a pension of $1,000 a month, enough to buy maybe a pint of beer and a small package of cigarettes.

"Oh, yes, the future is bright now we've escaped the tyranny of money, as 'Erbert said when he beat it with the company's cash."

BUT don't blame the gov'mint. They're in the 'ands of the heconomics and the heconomics are always right but always at the wrong time. They're ready for a deflation when a hiflation is startin'. By the time they get their minds around to the hiflation—a deflation is under way. When a hoxigen tent is needed they get out the fire department and as soon as a fire starts they pour on petrol. That's wot they call the cyclical budget and they're ridin' their cycle like kids, no 'ands, straight into the ditch.

I READ where Abbott says heconomics forces is in balance, jest like that fella Blondin was when 'e crossed Niagara Falls on a tightrope and cooked a homelette in the middle. The gov'mint 'as cooked us quite a homelette and will never get the heggs back in the shells, but it don't 'ave to worry. It's your heggs, not the gov'mint's, that's busted. Gov'mints don't lay heggs, but borrow yours and send 'em back with the yolks missin'. Gov'mints is roosters that can only crow."

Quoting

Organized labor has been steadily drifting away from organized Christianity for some years and the gap is becoming ominously wider.—Rev. Emlyn Davies, of Cardiff, Wales.

Even though it would seem easier without some people in there (the U.N.), I'd rather see us do the hard thing—keeping on as a whole, keeping the bridge open.—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

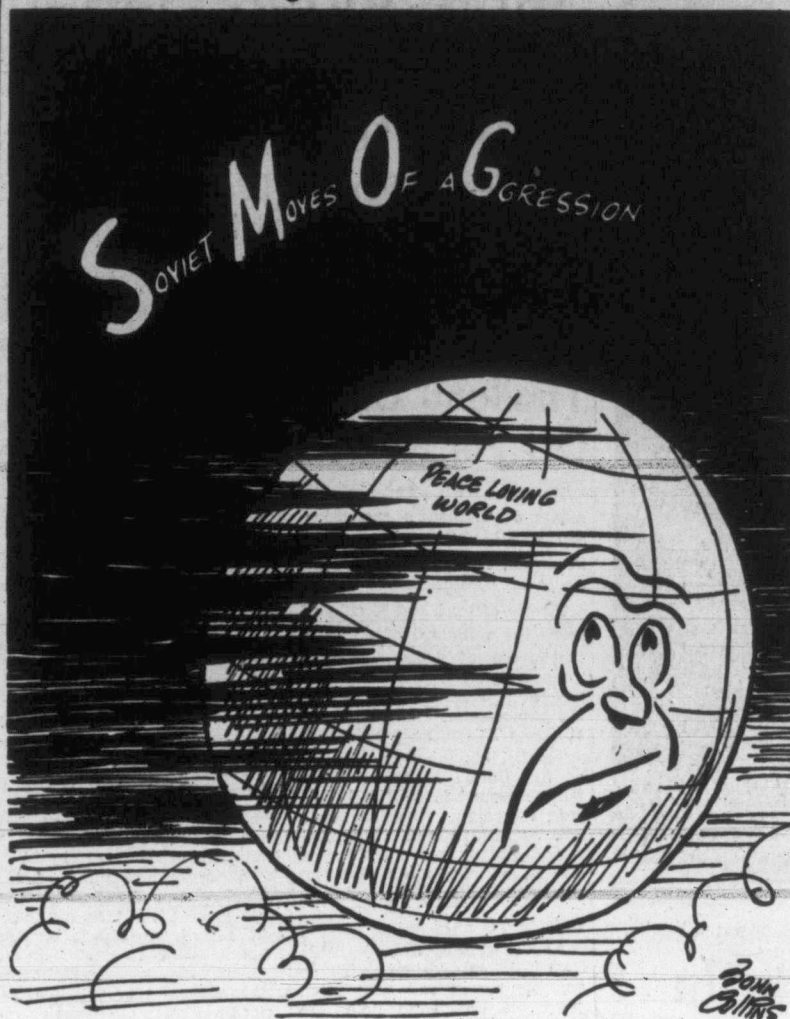

Everyone likes to eat and drink. . . . Very few are those who do it well. The satisfaction of a good meal . . . is as necessary to man as his spiritual nourishment.—Claude Michel, noted French steward.

Liberty could not survive without two parties. It has been proved that a party that remained dominant or a one-party system 'always has led to a country's downfall.—Herbert Hoover, former President of the United States.

If we want a healthy society made up of healthy bodies and healthy-minded citizens we must invest more money, time and effort in farming, not in acquiring more doctors and dentists.—Dr. Jonathan Forman, editor of the Ohio State Medical Journal.

My name was usually Blinky. And in every picture I would say, "Come on, Joe, or John, I've got the stuff in the car." I never did find out what the stuff was.—Screen comedian Phil Silvers, telling of his several early roles as "a pal of the hero."

This Smog Doesn't Seem To Lift

As Our Readers See It

ALL ARE REPRESENTED

Labor, that has so successfully got its wages so high in recent years, must become a political threat before it can achieve its maximum objectives or so argued President A. R. Mosher of the Canadian Congress of Labor speaking before the 10th annual convention of the congress in session at Winnipeg.

Said Mr. Mosher, "Because of the failure of labor to develop political power, government has been much less responsive to labor's request for adequate legislation. . . . Our weakness in parliament and the legislatures makes it impossible for us to exert adequate pressure on governments to obtain legislation of benefit not only to the workers but to the public as a whole."

It is open to argument, we think, whether Mr. Mosher is basing his thinking on very democratic grounds. Every worker—using the term, as it is so frequently misused, to mean only trades unionists—is as fully represented in parliament as any other individual or group in the country. To assume that labor's forces should unite politically so that it could have a greater weight of influence than the citizenry as a whole might easily raise the question whether the rights of labor and the rights of the average citizen are not sharply divergent.

CANADA'S DEFENCES

With reference to your leader of Friday last, "Be your age, Mr. Green," Mr. Green is absolutely right—it is Canada's policy to let someone else do the fighting, not only for the first six months but as long as possible, and was in the Second World War, as in Korea, and no doubt will be in the next conflict. Canada had no appreciable fighting weight in the Second World War for two years, and not much more for a year or two longer. Official figures prove this. Defence Headquarters issued the following after four years of war (I have them, and so can anyone who likes to refer back): Canada (K, W, Miss, & Pris.), 19,000 odd; Britain, 400,000; Britain (including civilian) over 500,000; New Zealand (pop. 2,500,000), 26,000; Australia (pop. 7,000,000), 74,000.

Canada has lost face, not only in the States but wherever the facts of her defencelessness are known, and they are becoming clear. She is as helpless against sudden attack as she is useless to the U.N. because she can contribute nothing to their common strength worth contributing.

Canada sent no ground troops to Korea because we had none fit to send—that is the truth. You probably know that too; if you don't you ought to; find out, and publish the truth—that is the best service you can render the country.

Canada would be as helpless in the event of sudden attack as she would have been in the Second World War had hostilities come to her shores "in the first months of the war" as they did to Britain. All she could do would be to howl to the States to come and defend her—as she has already done. In practice manoeuvres.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS

The result of the convention of the Progressive Conservative Party reflects not only a brilliant personal victory in the confirmation of Mr. Anscomb as leader, but secondly, and perhaps more important, that the majority of Progressive Conservatives are in favor of the continuation of the Coalition. Had the result been otherwise, there is no doubt at all that the Coalition would have been broken almost at once for the simple reason that the Premier has the right to choose his ministers and he would have, under the circumstances, to replace Mr. Anscomb.

Writing as a past first vice-president of the British Columbia Conservative Association and as one who has been consulted by members of both factions of the party, I now take the opportunity of expressing my satisfaction with the result for the reasons above mentioned.

As a supporter, however, of Coalition in British Columbia, I am among many who would regret to see either the Liberal or Conservative Parties attempt to end it even after its present term of office. What has weakened Coalition in the face of a strong Socialist opposition has been the method of choosing candidates based under the Hart-Maitland formula, which at that time was practical and presented no difficulty.

Having in mind that Progressive Conservatives in the City of Victoria and Liberals in Vancouver-South are virtually disenfranchised, as are Conservatives in North Okanagan and Liberals in South Okanagan, the remedy I suggest is that the Coalition Government set up by legislation a procedure under which primaries may be held in every riding, upon the following basis: Taking Victoria and Vancouver-South as examples, let each party hold its own nominating convention in each riding, selecting three candidates on a date prior to the date of official nomination, and that under a revised agreement the six names in each riding be submitted to a public vote and that the three "candidates" receiving the most votes in each riding be officially nominated as the Coalition candidates for the constituencies. This procedure would be even simpler in one member ridings. Under such a system no Liberal or Conservative could feel that he had been prevented from making his choice, and by this means a properly representative Coalition Government could be continued far beyond the present arrangement.

Travel Diary

By I. NORMAN SMITH

Associate Editor of The Ottawa Journal

CAIRO—A quiet day cooling heels while they fiddled with the aircraft engine! Up at dawn to get to the airport only to have the B.O.A.C. chappies say they were most awfully sorry and all that but the engine was out of sorts. We'd leave tomorrow instead, they decided, but not before we had hung about for four hours. Still, it gave us another look at Cairo, a mad place if ever I saw one.

Smith

BASRA, Iraq—Up before betimes, in fact up at 5 at Cairo to get to the airport. Our wounded plane was okay, but Egyptian authorities mucked about for an hour over our visas which were wrongly dated because of the delay. Finally off, and it felt good to be free of the place. "You are at 15,000 feet," said the steward after 15 minutes; "and you will see the canal in eight minutes."

Just then I looked out the window and saw the outside port propeller coming to a stop.

TURNED AROUND

So we turned around. "Most awfully sorry," the B.O.A.C. chappies were again, "but no use going on a nine-hour flight to Pakistan with one engine out." We all agreed, though you couldn't tell any difference. It would probably mean another day's delay, they said.

"What about today's regular plane?"

I asked. "Oh, it must have gone, was due to leave this minute and we have to circle around in the desert for a while so we can land." I asked about the priority I had spoken for but they were sure the other plane had gone.

As we landed the other B.O.A.C. was ready to start, its ladders up and doors shut. But we hailed 'em successfully and two of us—a U.N. man on a U.N. passport and I were given the remaining seats. Our luggage was lugged out and away we went, leaving the 35 passengers of yesterday's plane (if you follow me) looking more than somewhat disconsolate.

LANDING PERFECT

Come to think of it, I suppose the stopping of an engine and pouring out of gas and landing with only three engines sounds exciting. Actually no one gave it a thought. We were all too sore at the thought of going through the customs and immigration racket again, and getting up at 5 a.m. The landing incidentally was perfect.

The new plane somehow overlooked the announcement of "eight minutes from the Suez Canal" and that was all right with me. Suez had been a jinx. Flying over the desert is an eerie experience. It is monotonous for a while, a weary waste of flat sand. Then its drabness takes on color, red, purple, yellow. Hills appear, vague, irregular; then mountains, high mountains that bear snow half the year; then flat again, frighteningly, endlessly flat.

The sand looks baked hard and, as you cross the Syrian desert and get into Iraq it is baked hard. Mud, packed like asphalt. You feel unnatural about it all; wonder who put all that vast spread of sand there and for what purpose. Then suddenly appears an oil pipeline, running its straight and stubborn line more than 1,000 miles.

Famous last words, "For a limited time, this article may be secured without a down payment."

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

THERE'S a story going round," said the Elevator Man, "about the housewife who got fed up with housework and complained to her husband. 'Yes,' he said, to encourage her, 'but don't forget that the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world.' Later that evening she got dolled up, stuck her head in the door and said, 'Take over world domination for a couple of hours, darling. I'm going to the movies.' To get around that kind of problem, Britain opened a lot of day nurseries, so mothers could continue to work in industry. But there's a snag. One expert says 'we lose more manpower staffing the nurseries than we gain in the factories.' That's a tough one for Mr. Attlee to solve. Looks like the hand that rocks the cradle better keep on doing it and let those nursery people go back to work. Mezzanine!

"I often wonder," said the Elevator Man, "what super-salesman sold women the idea it's smart and exciting to earn their own living. He certainly put over a fast one there. Now the gals all raise a great ruckus if anybody suggests they ought to stay home. No comfortable home free of responsibilities for them. No sir! They clamor to get out, stand in crowded buses, plug away at some dull job for eight hours a day and then go home too tired to enjoy the evening. You can imagine the howl there'd have been if some man had decreed that they all had to do that. But the male was too smart for them. He passed around the idea that no woman had better dare try to make her way into his business world. After that there was no holding them, and now they're stuck with it. Going down!

"Not only," said the Elevator Man, "have women taken over the making and the selling. They do practically all the buying these days, too. Getting rid of all these chores gave man a lot more time for the things he really likes to do. It was just a bit of genius to label the whole thing the 'age of emancipation' for women. Wonder how long it'll be before the gals get wise?"

Remembering A Lost Art

From The Windsor Star

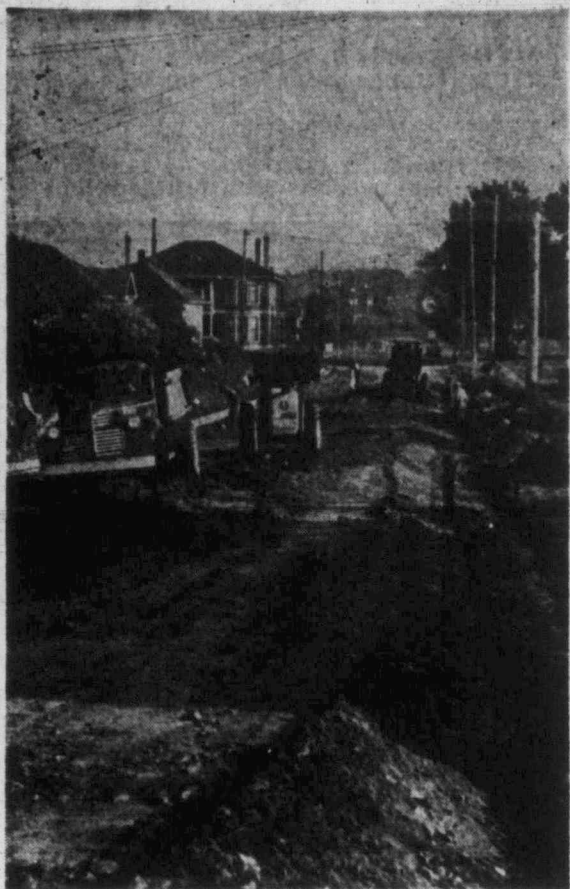

IS COLLECTING a lost art?

In the old days, everybody used to collect something. Wealthy men, like Lord Elgin, might spend fortunes acquiring the sculptured treasures of ancient Greece. Impoverished children would have to be content with bits of broken glass or colored stones.

In our boyhood, match folders were the most popular collectors' item (except for the perennial hobby leader, postage stamps). But our favorite was railroad timetables. They're still up in the attic—timetables for 142 different railways. We remember at a very tender age walking into railroad offices in Detroit with our heart in our mouth as we tried our best to look like a successful and time-pressed businessman. Our alleged need for a timetable to plan an important business trip must have been very transparent, but the clerks were kindly, and we rarely came away empty-handed.

Our collecting habits were brought to an abrupt end when we were at the "clip and mail this coupon and we will send you a free sample" stage. The morning the postman, with a sly snicker, handed mother a package of hair dye and a tin of powder for making false teeth stick, our collecting days were over.

WINE MAKER LOSES

Tony Must Pay $50, Magistrate Decides

It cost rotund Tony Pallentiere, Italian-born Roderick Street-Saanich resident, $50 in Saanich police court Thursday for making wine.

That was the fine—with a 30-day jail term in default—imposed by Magistrate A. I. Thomas when he found Pallentiere guilty on a charge of unlawfully manufacturing wine. Fine was paid.

Charge of unlawfully having unsealed liquor on his premises was dismissed.

"He's made wine and drank it all his life," said counsel Lloyd G. McKenzie, pointing out it was drunk like water in Italy.

"He had 26 gallons of it, evidence showed, and that meant he had a half gallon a week to drink," counsel continued.

Mr. McKenzie emphasized in his arguments for dismissal of the charge that there had been no proof to the contrary presented that the wine was not made for accused's own use.

He claimed a conviction should not be based on an assumption, therefore, that the wine was made for more than his own use.

"There is nothing in the section of the Liquor Control Board Act applying to any person making wine for his own use—and no permit is supplied or required by the Liquor Control Board for that purpose," counsel contended.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. Strable, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Memeon, Mr. and Mrs. J. Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. F. Merryfield, Mr. and Mrs. J. Cummings and "Pop" Crawford of Vancouver.

Assembly Moving To Re-Elect Lie

Believed Secretary Will Serve For 3 Years More Despite Russia's Veto

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The western powers rallied today behind Trygve Lie in an effort to keep him as United Nations Secretary-General despite Russian opposition.

Jacob A. Malik, Soviet deputy foreign minister, Thursday used Russia's 46th veto in the Security Council to block a second five-year term for the Norwegian diplomat as head of the world organization.

Lie's term will expire Feb. 2, 1951.

U.S. Representative Warren R. Austin, as October president of the council, sent a letter to Nasrallah Entezam of Iran, president of the veto-free General Assembly, saying the council had failed to agree on re-election.

Most delegates here agreed this left the problem up to the Assembly, although it was expected the Russians would attempt to maintain nothing could be done without their express consent.

Austin, talking to reporters after the closed session of the council, said:

"There was never a moment of doubt in our (the American) position. We have been for Lie from the beginning. We consider him exceptionally gifted with extraordinary characteristics fitting him for this job, for which there is no precedent."

"Although he has taken stands on some questions with which we could not agree, that makes no difference. We have the greatest respect for his courage."

"Because of his position he is vulnerable to criticism. It is up to a strong country like the United States to support him when he is under fire."

WORRY EASED

Shown a copy of Austin's remarks, Lie was pleased. The secretary-general had been downcast by the Soviet veto and worried that he had failed in his job.

Informed sources here are sure the General Assembly will extend his term of office for another three years as the U.S. wishes. Lie has said he would not accept a shorter period of service.

Authoritative sources said Russian opposition came from Lie's whole-hearted support of the U.N. action in Korea. Previous to that he had often been denounced by various American organs of opinion as over-friendly to the Russians.

In the council Thursday nine votes were in favor of Lie, the Soviet Union opposed and Nationalist China abstained.

Canada, on the other hand, this year will buy about $75,000,000 worth of aircraft and parts and vehicles from the U.S.

"The reciprocal deal, agreed to earlier this year, does not mean that the U.S. will match Canadian purchases dollar for dollar," the informant said. "Canadian orders will be a great deal larger than those of the U.S. However, the U.S. is picking up steam. We expect increases as plans develop."

The informant added: "United States procurement officers will be watching Canadian industrial efficiency at Sorel. It will be a kind of test case."

LATE G. W. BIRKS

Gerald W. Birks Of Well-Known Company Dies

MONTREAL (CP) — Lt. Col. Gerald Walter Birks, O.B.E., chairman of the board of Henry Birks and Sons Ltd., died here Thursday night in his 79th year.

He was one of Montreal's leading philanthropists and was president of the Metropolitan Board of the Young Men's Christian Association for 28 years.

Mr. Birks started in business in 1888 and was appointed treasurer of the firm in 1892, vice-president 1928, and vice-chairman of the board of directors in 1944, and chairman of the board last Aug. 30.

In 1915 he was appointed senior officer of the Canadian Y.M.C.A. war services and proceeded overseas with the honorary rank of major, subsequently being gazetted lieutenant-colonel.

As general supervisor of the Y.M.C.A. camps he was responsible for all overseas operations of the far-flung services of the Canadian "Y" to men in uniform. In January, 1918, he was awarded the O.B.E. (military division) in recognition of his outstanding services.

He is survived by his wife, the former Phyllis Ross, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ross of Montreal, and one adopted son, Richard I. Birks.

Noted Editor Dies

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Michael Williams, 73, noted author and editor, died Thursday after a long illness. Williams was city editor of the San Francisco Examiner in 1906 at the time of the earthquake and fire. He served on numerous newspapers, and once was editor of the Commonwealth and the National Catholic War Council Bulletin.

THE HOME GARDEN

Ladies' Day Views Come From Kitchen

By JACK G. BEASTALL

Today is Ladies' Day in the home garden. At least, a lady gardener has supplied the material for today's column, and this is what she has to say to other gardeners:

"To some of your readers it may seem a long jump from the home garden to the home kitchen and the preparation of vegetables for the family table."

"To others it will appear perfectly logical that the gardener should be concerned that his produce shall reach the table in as perfect a condition as possible."

"It takes but little extra thought and time to learn other methods of cooking our favorite vegetables, some not at all new. Take the much-abused potato, for instance, beside being boiled (in their skins, of course, with the minimum of water), they should frequently be served baked, scalloped, or "en casserole" with either carrots, onions, or cubed squash. Season with silvers of garlic (home grown, naturally), and use only enough water to tenderize; keep the lid on tightly and you will enjoy a new taste thrill."

TWO BEST SQUASH

"Too many gardeners do not know enough about the various kinds of squash which may be grown in our short season of warmth. After years of growing, the two best are, Buttercup—medium size with solid golden flesh and small seed cavity—and Uconn Bush, a new variety of neat habit for the small garden. Fruits are small, flesh orange-colored and of good flavor. Buttercup has the better flavor if you can spare the space."

"To be appreciated, squash should be baked. The addition of salt, a little black pepper, small pieces of drippings or butter, is all that is needed, and be sure to serve a green vegetable with it."

"And spinach, if you must boil it use the absolute minimum of water, just to prevent scorching."

TV Offers Don't Impress Garbo Who Still 'Wants To Be Alone'

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Exclusively Yours:

The TV offers are still being tossed at Greta Garbo but her agent is saying "no dice."

Incidental information: Errol Flynn's first look at Pat Flynn was in the Warner makeup department with Pat in curlers and cold cream. . . Fox is dangling a star contract in front of Gloria de Haven. . . Frankie Carle, booked solid for the next 14 months, says waltzes and romance music are what the kids now want in the nation's ballrooms.

Quick, saddle up the clothes horses, Nelly.

Lots of women are staying away from the movie palaces, Paramount costume designer Edith Head claims, because screen dolls aren't strutting around in the glad rags these days.

"Gloria Swanson was the last of the clothes horses," wails Edith. "It's not the fault of the stars or the designers, but the stories that are being made. Gangster movies and psychological dramas don't appeal to women as much as producers think. Clothes are a part of women's chemistry."

"Diana Lynn and Jan Sterling could be great clothes horses. But they have to do what the stories dictate."

The second Mrs. Mickey Rooney has agreed to shelve any ideas of launching Mickey Rooney Jr., as a moppet star. Later maybe. . . Wayne Morris, set for Monogram's "Trail Dust," is leaving Hollywood's dust and moving his family to a 40-acre avocado ranch near Oceanside, Calif. He'll commute for his film work. . . Tony Martin dances for the first time in his career in RKO's "Two Tickets to Broadway." He's been secretly coached as a Fred Astaire by Marge and Gower Champion. . .

HUTTON-SKELTON TEAM SET?

The idea mill on a Betty Hutton-Red Skelton movie is already grinding 'at M.G.M. as a result of the shenanigans pulled by the pair at the big party cooked up by Betty and Esther Williams for the benefit of the Visually Handicapped Children.

Among Skelton howlers: "Mickey Rooney. There's a guy who's too tall to be a lover and too short to be a producer."

Betty Grable Stars With Dan Dailey

Betty Grable's million-dollar legs get ample chance to show themselves in new Twentieth Century-Fox technicolor hit, "My Blue Heaven," in which she is co-starred with Dan Dailey. Picture started today at Dominion Theatre.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Twenty years ago when I first played bridge with Carless Carl I was sure that I was playing with the man who was going to become the world's best bridge player. He already had every quality a good bridge player should have but suffered from one great fault. He was careless.

I felt that that was a fault of his youth and that he would overcome it as he grew older. Unfortunately, the fault was chronic and he is still as careless as ever.

Occasionally, his skill allows him to get out of the holes his carelessness gets him into, as was the case with today's hand.

CORRECT BIDDING

The bidding of the hand is in accordance with good modern standards. In particular North's pass to four hearts with only a singleton in that suit was correct in view of the fact that South had bid and rebid the suit strongly.

Carl won the opening diamond lead with dummy's ace, cashed the ace of hearts, discarded his losing spade on the king of diamonds and without bothering to consider that someone might hold five trumps carelessly played the six of spades from dummy. East played low and Carl ruffed and laid down the king of hearts.

IN TROUBLE

When West showed out Carl knew he was in trouble. However, he proceeded to make the best of a bad job and came limping home with his contract due to the fact that East held both black aces and only three diamonds.

The play was simple. Carl played the king of clubs. East won with the ace and led his last diamond. Carl trumped low, cashed his queen and jack of trumps (all the trumps he had left) and went after the clubs. East ruffed the second club lead and was left with the ace and five of spades only. He cashed his ace but had to lose the last trick to dummy's king. The reader will note that Carl could have insured his contract against any break by the simple expedient of playing a low club from dummy at trick four.

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Danny Kaye Sidesteps TV; Too Much Turmoil, He Says

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—While nearly every other top comedian is scrambling to television, Danny Kaye is in no hurry. "I don't think I'll do TV for a couple of years," he remarked on the set of "On the Riviera." "Everything is in too much of a turmoil. I'll wait until it simmers down."

Kaye does not even own a television set. But that will soon be changed. His three-year-old daughter, Dena, has put pressure on him into ordering one.

Robert Young, now in "Good-bye, My Fancy" with Joan Crawford, is playing his first film role since last December. A longtime free-lancer, he reports the independent field is rugged these days. The major studios are using their contract players and independent producing is largely on the rocks. Meanwhile, more players are being dropped by studios and joining the free-lancers.

Dan Dailey is playing one of his rare non-musical roles in "I Can Wet It For You Wholesale." Which kind of film does he prefer? "The pay's the same for either one," he shrugs.

Bill Mauldin is finishing up his first screen role in "Red Badge of Courage." How he would like to do more? "I'd have to be awfully broke," said the baby-faced cartoonist.

Doris Day is off the Bob Hope air show this season. The reason "Bob wants to do a lot of traveling this year and I can't do that and pictures, too."

CAPSULE REVIEW

"Two Flags West" is just a fair western despite its big cast and handsome settings. All of the elements for greatness are there, but the whole thing stumbles into a muddy plot. It centres around a headstrong cavalry commander, who is getting to be pretty familiar in bigtime horse operas—Joseph Cotten, Linda Darnell, Jeff Chandler, Cornel Wilde and some fine photography help make it passable entertainment.

By RED SMITH

NEW YORK—It wasn't the most memorable world series ever played, but it was far and away the most mannerly. It was Be Nice To Philadelphia Week, and everybody was ever so kind. The New York crowds applauded all the Phillies with generous courtesy. So did the Yankees. Each day the victors' clubhouse rang with praises of the victims. "Wonderful pitching," said Casey Stengel. "Terrific," the Yankees agreed. "Brilliant managing," said Casey. "Flawless," his troops cried. "Magnificent competitors," said Mr. Stengel. "Colossal," the Yankees echoed, brushing off the competition like lint on a blue serge suit.

Yet it wasn't generosity that inspired the cheers for Casimir Jim Konstanty when he came to bat in the third inning of the final game. That was honest respect for a guy who was refuting those summer-long complaints about the lively ball. It was admiration for a guy who was looking more and more like a throw-back to Old Hoss Radbourne.

When Charles Sweeney, the other half of the Providence pitching staff, jumped to the St. Louis team of the National Association in 1884, Old Hoss Radbourne pitched the last 27 games of the season, won 26 of them as Providence took the National League pennant, and then worked all three games of a prehistoric world series against the New York Metropolitans. He won them all on successive days, 6-0, 3-1 and 11-2.

His Durability Proven

Old Hoss Konstanty stopped a little short of that. The Phillies' relief pitcher worked in 74 games during the National League season. He started the first world series game, allowed one run in eight innings, and lost. He warmed up through the second game. He relieved Ken Heintzelman in the third game and did what he was supposed to do; although the Yankees tied the score on an error while he was working. Then he pitched six and two-thirds innings of relief in the fourth game.

Counting the world series, Old Hoss Konstanty pitched in 27 games this year, exactly half a season. As records go, that will do until a dead ball comes back.

It was not a memorable series, but it had moments that needn't be forgotten right off. One can remember the Yankees' last inning at bat, when Joe DiMaggio walked up with New York leading 5 to 0. The Yankee dugout had been silent. Ed Ford had all the runs he needed to make the final victory safe; the biased professionals were just sitting there, waiting for their year's work to end.

But now half a dozen of them got up and came to the mouth of the dugout and started clapping and shouting. They were yelling for DiMaggio to hit a home run. Not because the team needed it. Just because they wanted the big guy to belt one more. It made a small tableau to remember.

A fellow can remember with pleasure the elegant candour of Yogi Berra when everybody was praising the 21-year-old Ford. "Usually," said Yogi, "this curve is his best pitch. I never seen his curve so bad as this time."

Afterward, sitting in the regimental mess on Fifty-First Street, there was opportunity to watch a nice man in action. It was a big night and Toots Shor was busy tending store. He stopped by at a table to chat, but kept his eyes on the entrance and in a minute or two he said, "There's big Greenberg," and went to the door to shake hands with the vice-president of the Cleveland Club.

He returned to the table for a few minutes, jumped up again and went out front. When he reappeared, he had an arm across the shoulders of Joe Page, the forgotten man of the Yankee bullpen.

Page apparently had slipped away early from the Yankees' victory party at the Biltmore. One could understand how he must have felt. In 1947, it was his relief pitching that got the Yankees into a world series and his relief pitching that enabled them to win it. In 1948 he had an off year, and the Yankees finished third.

In 1949, Page was himself again, and the Yankees won. When the Red Sox threatened, Page turned them back. When emergencies arose in the world series, Page coped with them. On a team of heroes, he was the biggest hero. "There is nothing like Joe Page," chanted a sextet of baseball writers, thinly disguised as Brooklyn pitchers, at the writers' mid-winter frolic, "nothing in this world. We would play for half our wage, just for anything like Joe Page."

But this year was 1948 for Page. Casey Stengel lost faith in him, turned to somebody else for help in times of need. During the world series Joe sat in the bullpen, but the first time Casey wanted a relief pitcher he called for Tom Ferrick and the other time he brought in Allie Reynolds. Page took no part in the series. For the first time in four years, the Yankees were able to win a pennant and a world championship without him.

Got Hero's Welcome

Now Toots purposely made a stir bringing him in through the crowd that was waiting for tables. Several diners got up and went over to shake hands with Page, who lingered briefly, then went out front again. Toots sat down at a table but he was fidgety.

"Excuse me," he said, "I want to be with Page." He hustled out and a waiter came by the table, grinning.

"The boss gave him a hero's welcome," the waiter said, "the way it should be."

A little later, Toots was on the telephone putting in a long-distance call for Frank Leahy, whose Notre Dame football team had been whipped that afternoon. They are friends, but Toots doesn't phone Leahy when he wins.

After an enthusiastic welcome by fans who braved the elements Thanksgiving Day to preview the introduction on 13-man rugby here, the regular winter schedule gets under way Saturday at Macdonald Park with two games on the card. Both start at 2:30.

On the upper field the defending titlists, Victoria College Vikings, will tackle the newest addition to the loop, the Normal School. Match should prove interesting as several members of last year's College squad have lined up with the prospective teachers this season.

SCOTS RETURN

The Canadian Scottish Regiment will return to senior ranks after an absence of several years, to tackle the James Bay aggregation on the lower pitch. Composed of several members of last year's Oak Bay Wanderers, Scots should make things interesting for the J.B.A.A. club.

Team line-ups follow:

Victoria College—Brunwell, Knott, J. Shipley, Riddle, Kerr, R. Shipley, Stead, K. Bridge, Monaghan, Campbell, A. Bridge, Tower, Bass, Howard. Normal School—Brunwell, Knott, J. Shamrocks Sport New Sweaters At Banquet

Players and officials of the Victoria Shamrocks box lacrosse team, runners-up for the Intercity League championship, along with officials and team representatives from the city senior B league were the guests of the Memorial Arena Commission and manager Joe Dukowski at a stag dinner last night at the Monterey. During the evening the Shamrocks were presented with smart sweater jackets. Members of the commission congratulated the club on its splendid showing in intercity play while manager Ralph Baker of the Rocks extended the thanks of the club to the sponsors of the banquet. Entertainment was provided by the Home Towners.

NEW YORK (UP)—What is behind Joe DiMaggio's statement that he may not return to the New York Yankees in 1951?

The baseball world wondered today while DiMaggio insisted it was no "off the cuff" statement, not a publicity gag and not the opening shot in his campaign to win another $100,000 contract from the Yankees.

DiMaggio said he "just hadn't made up my mind" and "probably wouldn't until next spring."

He said his health would be the determining factor. If it's good, Joe will be back. Otherwise, he indicates he may make the big jump into the television and radio field.

"I have two different points of view on next year," DiMaggio said. "I told Dan Topping (Yankee owner) in July and August that I didn't know if my aches and pains could take it another year. Then I felt like a two-year-old during the world series and I never felt better all season than I do now."

NO SALARY TALKS

The great outfielder said he had no immediate plans for a salary conference with club officials. He said he would spend the winter in his San Francisco home after completing a series of television programs being made here.

The first thought among baseball men was that DiMaggio was opening his bid for another $100,000 contract.

"He'd be a sucker to quit," was the general reaction. There have been hints from the Yankee front office that DiMaggio will be asked to accept a cut in 1951. Joe himself would not be surprised if the slash were attempted. He knows that at 36 he is nearing the end of his baseball life.

Victoria Cougars will send the full complement of 16 players up against the invading Portland Eagles in their Pacific Coast Hockey League clash at the Memorial Arena tonight. Game time is 8:30. Recently-arrived defenceman Don Webster will strip tonight as will rearguard Joe Lepine who missed Monday afternoon's tilt with Seattle due to an injured hand.

With regular defenceman salaried available, Bernie Strongman will move back to his regular centre berth between Joe Evans and Roy McKay, which should definitely bolster the club's offensive power.

Remainder of the forward units will remain unchanged with Eddie Dorohoy working as pivot for Eddie Mazur and Lorne Davis and Reg Abbott flanked by Andy Hebertson and Bob Frampton. Jack McIntyre will work as the extra forward.

Portland comes to town under a new coach, Tony Hemmerling of last year's San Francisco southern division outfit. From last season's Shamrocks Hemmerling has defencemen Walter Bak and Danny Nixon and forwards Larry Silvestri, Walter Samanski, Frank Kubasek, Jim Fairburn, George Homenuke and Bill Hartsburg. Force Canadiens To Come From Behind In Tie Game

The 1950-51 edition of Chicago Black Hawks seems a bit stronger than a couple of hockey-wise men have figured it to be.

The Hawks came within an ace last night of ruining the National Hockey League season opener for Montreal Canadiens, rated top contenders for the league title.

Penalties late in the game, played before Canadiens' largest opening-night crowd on record—14,224—forced the Hawks to settle for a 3 to 3 tie and one point in the league standing.

Even at this stage of the race, their performance, however, stamped them as a force to be reckoned with during the 70-game schedule.

The result of the night's lone game left Detroit Red Wings, league and Stanley Cup champions, alone in the lead with two points picked up from their 3 to 2 victory over New York Rangers in Detroit Wednesday.

Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs, the loop's other two teams, swung into action Saturday when the Bruins visit Montreal and the Hawks invade Toronto.

IRVIN CONFIDENT

The Canadiens took to the ice only a few hours after their coach, Dick Irvin, said they could win both the league title and championship. They appeared unimpressive, for all their goals came while Hawks were short-handed.

Irvin had support for his choice in Toronto, where general manager Conn Smythe of the Leafs told a press conference he figured Canadiens and Detroit were the teams to beat.

Roy Conacher, who begged the 198th goal of his N.H.L. career, opened the scoring at 7:35 of the first period. It was the only Hawk goal scored while they had an advantage in manpower. Veteran Elmer Lach knotted the count less than four minutes later on passes from Glen Harmon and Doug Harvey.

Bill Mosienko sent the Hawks out front with the only goal of the middle session, and they moved two up after seven minutes of the final on a goal by Gus Bodnar.

Ken Mosdel and Floyd Curry were the marksmen for Canadiens as the Hawks failed to kill off penalties in quick succession to Doug Bentley, Ernie Dickens and Jack Stewart.

SUMMARY
First Period—1, Chicago, R. Conacher, 7:35; 2, Montreal, Lach (Harmon, Harvey), 11:05. Penalties: Johnson, Stewart, Stastuk.
Second Period—3, Chicago, Mosienko (Gadsby, Bentley), 1:00. Penalties: None.
Third Period—4, Chicago, Bodnar (Stastuk), 7:15; 5, Montreal, Mosdel (Richard, Harmon), 12:27; 6, Montreal, Curry (MacKenzie, Mosdel), 14:38. Penalties: Lach, Bentley, Gadsby, Richard (3), Dickens, Stewart.

Hockey Clubs Tie In Wild Scramble

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Kerrisdale Monarchs came from behind to grab a 4 to 4 overtime tie with Kamloops Elks last night in a Mainline-Okanagan game that threatened to get out of hand at times. There were rubeaturs galore as the Monarchs argued with referees Bud Fraser and Fred Janicki over penalties. Elks also took up the chant when they had a goal called back in the third.

Chuck Millman, Monarchs coach, was ejected from the players' bench at the end of the second period by referee Fraser.

GOLD PUCK FOR REARDON

MONTREAL (BUP)—Kenny Reardon, who used to get little but brickbats from National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell, got a gold puck last night. In a brief "honor night" ceremony before the Canadiens' home town league opener against Chicago, Campbell presented Reardon with a gold puck and former Canadian goalie Bill Durnan with a silver tea service and a replica of the Vezina Trophy which he won six times.

FROM THE FANSTAND

By PETE SALLAWAY, Times Sports Editor

Sports in Victoria have not been subjected to the problem of having to compete for attendance against events being sent out over television. In the United States this has become a major headache and during the past summer minor league baseball launched a campaign to secure some financial relief for many teams who claimed their gates had been seriously depleted through the televising of major league games. As a matter of fact a number of clubs folded during the past season and blamed video as the deciding factor in their closing out operations. Just how seriously televising of college football games in the States will affect attendance figures is being thoroughly studied this fall.

There have been many arguments put forth pro and con but on hand today is the published result of an exhaustive study on the long-range effect of television on sports attendance.

The study was made by Jerry N. Jordan, a young university student, in connection with his academic pursuits at Princeton and the University of Pennsylvania without any commercial influences or considerations.

Just Like A New Toy

In his report Jordan provides some interesting and revealing answers on a complex and controversial issue. His findings include such conclusions as: 1. The length of time a person has owned a television set directly influences his and his family's attendance at sports events. 2. When he first buys a set, attendance goes down temporarily. Later—after one season in most sports—attendance returns to normal. 3. After one to two years of ownership, the TV owners take other members of their family out to games more frequently than non-owners. 5. The long-range effect of television, as it is today, therefore, will not harm attendance at sports events and may help to increase it.

Jordan points out that different sports are affected differently. Football because of its short season and few games is hurt more during the first season of TV ownership than is baseball with its longer season and more games. Smaller colleges are not hurt by the television of nearby large colleges. Their smaller crowds are drawn mainly from students, loyal alumni and neighbors.

Night Baseball Hurts

Minor league baseball, on the other hand, is hurt when very close to the television of major league games. The main cause of the hurt is major league competition in night games. TV has accentuated this competition. It is also interesting to note that Jordan lists other factors affecting attendance at sports events as economic conditions, management, performance and publicity. "all much more powerful than television."

Flavors Of An Alibi

Lacrosse season is washed up but members of the Shamrocks' Sideliners Club are still active. Against the wishes of the Shamrocks' directors the boosters' organization has sent a letter to the Inter-city Lacrosse Commission protesting the calibre of refereeing in the circuit last season and expressing the hope it will improve come the 1951 campaign.

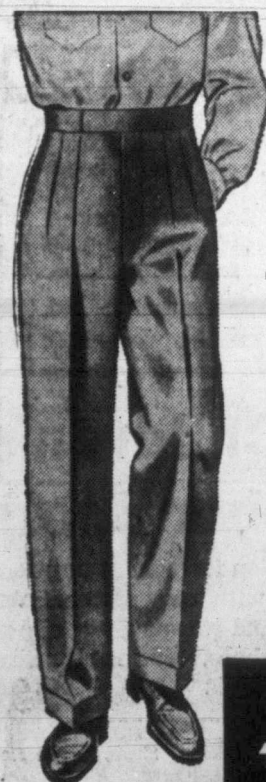

It seems the Sideliners were particularly hostile over the work of the officials in the final game against the Adanacs at New Westminster. Shamrocks' officials and players were definitely opposed to any post-mortem complaints about the referees. They were of the opinion the mainland scribes would make hay of such action and it would also flavor of seeking to establish an alibi after being beaten. They have something in that argument.

Saddler Takes Easy Decision

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Sandy Saddler, world featherweight champion, Thursday night won a 10-round unanimous decision over Harry LaSane in a non-title bout.

Saddler, making his first ring appearance since winning the title from Willie Pep, got down to work in the ninth round and floored LaSane for a nine-count. He staggered LaSane in the 10th but couldn't finish him off.

Major Clubs Pick Up Prize Prospects

NEW YORK (UP)—Moving quickly to make prize minor league prospects safe from next month's player draft, major league baseball clubs engaged today in a widespread shuffle of talent.

Six teams were involved in the latest manoeuvring—the St. Louis Cardinals, Brooklyn Dodgers, Chicago Cubs, Cincinnati Reds, and Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League and the St. Louis Browns of the American League.

The moving idea is that the best of the minor leaguers must be made members of the parent club—or else a rival team can draft them next month for 110,000. To make room on the rosters for the young up-and-comers, older players must be sent down or cut loose.

The Cards, who slumped to fourth place this year with a veteran-studded line-up, came up with the largest shake-up—buying 11 players from their minor league clubs.

Included in this group was Don Richmond, Rochester Red Wings third baseman who won the International League batting championship with a mark of .337.

$75,000 FOR DEMPSEY
The Pirates made a single purchase, but that was a $75,000 one. The prize was pitcher Cornelius (Com) Dempsey from the San Francisco Seals, a 27-year-old righthander who had brilliant seasons in 1948 and 1949 but won eight and lost nine, in 1950.

The Cubs, who have been specially active, sold pitcher Bill Voiselle, who won nine and lost seven, to St. Paul of the American Association, an outfielder Hank Edwards to Montreal of the International League. Chicago also purchased third-baseman Leon Brinkopt and pitcher Elvin Stabelfeld from their Los Angeles team of the Coast League.

$100,000 Offer

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—Promoter William P. Kyne Thursday offered $100,000 to the world heavyweight boxing champion, Ezzard Charles, to defend his title against Joey Maxim, light heavyweight titleholder, in San Francisco next spring. Kyne sent the offer to Charles' manager, Jake Mintz, in Pittsburgh, Penn.

Orange Crush Set Early Bowling Pace

With the autumn-winter bowling leagues in their fifth week at Gibson's Bowladrome, Orange Crush have established themselves at the head of the Senior Tenpin League with a four-game lead over their nearest rivals during the past week.

The popmen have captured 13 decisions in 15 starts and Stratheona Cafe's record is nine and six. In third place, a single game behind the cafemen, is Dickson Tea and Coffee, while Watson's Men's Wear is two games behind Dickson's with six wins and nine losses.

The other clubs rounding out the six-team circuit are Toggery Shop with a five-10 record and Gorge Hotel with only four decisions in 10 games.

In the loop's individual averages, Harold Paulding of the third-place Dickson Tea and Coffee outfit is setting the pace with a 182 average in an even dozen games. The Holmes brothers, Harry and Bill are leading the way for the pacesetter Orange Crush squad, each sporting 179 averages. Cec Dixon of the runner-up Stratheona Cafe entry also has a 179 average.

HIGH SINGLE
Andy Palmer who bowls for the cellar-dwelling Gorge Hotel club, has the high single for the year with a 235 while Dickson's L. Patterson has a 594 to his credit for the season's highest three-game total to date.

The 20-team Commercial Tenpin League race is still a close affair with seven teams bunched at the top separated by only four points. Tillicums have a healthy three-point lead to head the parade. Duffy's and Slades are deadlocked in the runner-up slot with 12 points apiece while

Adanacs Fail To Use Speed

TORONTO (CP)—New Westminster Adanacs, down two games to Owen Sound Crescents in their best-of-seven Dominion lacrosse finals, still haven't played up to form, their manager says.

Ken McDonald said his squad must play the lacrosse they're capable of to down the Crescents, winners of the first two games by 8 to 7 and 13 to 6 scores. The teams meet again tonight in Maple Leaf Gardens.

"So far Owen Sound has been making us play it their way, and we haven't had a chance to capitalize on our speed," McDonald said. He said forwards Alf Wood, Bob Bremner, Leo Jerome and Jack Northrup are due to break out with a batch of goals.

"A beaten team should be a tired team," McDonald said. "Our players were still fresh after Wednesday's game. Owen Sound didn't give them a chance to get all the run out of their systems."

U.K. Doctors May Resign If Claims Unpaid

Guild Acts In Wage Dispute

LONDON (Reuter) — The 19,000 family doctors in Britain's state-run health service have been urged by their guild to resign if their pay claims are not met by the end of the year.

Resignation forms now are going out to all general practitioners, it was announced today by the British Medical Guild, specially set up to deal with the wage dispute. If 80 per cent agree to resign all the forms will be sent to Health Minister Aneurin Bevan.

The British Medical Association has been negotiating since January, 1948—six months after the health service started—for a revision in the pay system. After months of talks it set up the guild to plan the mass resignation.

Each doctor now gets the equivalent of $2.32 a year for each patient on his list. This is paid from a pool set aside from the weekly contributions paid by all working adults.

The doctors want this pool increased and the pay arrangement set on a sliding scale so that more is paid for the first 1,000 patients than the second, and so on.

Newsprint Boosted $10 Per Ton Here

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Powell River Paper Co. has notified Canadian and United States customers of a $10-a-ton increase in the price of newsprint, effective Oct. 16. This increases the cost from $99 to $109 a ton. Higher production costs was given as the reason for the boost.

In New York R. M. Fowler, president of the Newsprint Association of Canada, said no mill in Canada now can accept a substantial new order for newsprint for shipment to a publisher in Latin America.

By ART STOTT

Make what you like of it, but the swing in music sales is back to the old melodies. Frank Tupper says the travelers report the trend through-out Canada. The good old tune-ful selections, sentimental and gay, are passing over the counters as the cash registers jingle.

Maybe it's a sign of a general yearning for a more peaceful time, a lingering glance back to the days that didn't seem too crowded with crises. It could be part of a growing recognition that all that is old—or at least isn't brassy new—isn't without merit. Frank has an idea that it reflects a healthier mental attitude, a slowing down of the frantic tempo of war and post-war escapism. The jerky, erratic movement of sound that went with hectic day-to-day living seems to have completed its cycle.

YOU NOTICE the influence in the faces of people leaving picture houses where tunes of yesterday were featured. That Fred Astaire-Red Skelton film story with "Three Little Words," "So Long, So Long" and the rest sent customers out smiling and humming the familiar strains under their breath.

Rex Steele, up from Warner Bros. on a holiday to his old home, expresses a similar reaction. He's been working on a short that uses a number of the songs that were on everyone's lips 20 and 30 years ago. Apart from technical satisfaction, he enjoyed the simple tunes that he and the rest of the continent know so well.

THERE'S SOMETHING comfortable about the old songs. They clothe you like a baggy, well-used dressing gown and those dilapidated old slippers that have made friends with your feet. It could be a sign of age, of course, but they help restore a sense of belonging. The musically illiterate, like me, felt kind of out of things when the youngsters were bouncing to bebop, and we hadn't any retreat into the impragable fortresses of the pure classics. We don't feel quite so left out with "Moonlight on the Wabash" and "The Dark Town Strutters' Ball" coming back into circulation.

IF YOU RECALL the $1,165,000 road improvement by-law Victoria passed in the summer of 1948, it's reasonable enough to say that the streets of the city are paved with gold—taxpayers' gold. When you look at them, though, the surface is blacktop, with a few slabs of concrete here and there, and strips of dirt and rubble where mains have been laid down. There may be gold in the streets, but they only glimmer in the rain or on a frosty night.

If you want to see the genuine color, you have to go away from town, where the maples are splashing hillsides with patches of shining guineas. Herb Warren, for whom Beacon Hill Park stands as a fair witness of appreciation, thinks the highway up-island is so rich at this time that it's worth driving the family through to Duncan just to see it. The stretch from Koksilah into the town itself is just right, he says. Beside the maples—and they shine against the dark firs across the inlet from the Malahat—the dogwood and bird cherries are glowing in varying shades of red. The trees haven't the brilliance of eastern Canada species, but they're good while the color lasts.

HERB'S DEPARTMENT is conducting a new experiment on trees—trying to adapt a type of cotoneaster for boulevard use. The shrubs should grow 12 to 14 feet high with roots that don't lift sidewalks or clog drains. There are a couple of jokers in the plan, though. Cotoneaster is a hard growth to train into the shape that's desired, and it's highly susceptible to pests. All the things that happen to a rose can happen to the shrub.

Still, if the scheme works out, the introduction of cotoneaster to the boulevards should enhance the appearance of the strips. Their foliage and bright berry clusters stand high in decorative effect.

The poem says only God can make a tree, but the parks department is more than willing to co-operate when it comes to creating something more suitable than forest giants for the grass beside the sidewalk.

In Hotel Rooms—Gideon Bibles

Unceasing work of Gideons in placing copies of Bible in hotel rooms goes on quietly, often unnoticed, from year to year. In Empress Hotel today, group noted Bibles prominently displayed. Left to right: R. H. Colridge, White Rock, western field secretary of organization; Frank Hunter, past president of Victoria camp; Roy Spaetzle, Kitchener, Ont., originator of Gideon memorial Bible plan, and D. H. Goodwyn, Victoria, registrar for convention.

SOOKE AUTHOR SELLS AGAIN

Interest In Canada Increasing In U.S.

For the second time within a year, Canadian-born Garnett Weston, Sooke author, has sold a serial to the Saturday Evening Post, highest-paying popular magazine in the U.S.

The author, who owns and operates a 60-acre farm, is highly pleased at having succeeded again. "Before the war it would have been impossible to sell a Canadian story to an American publication," he said. "But things have changed now and there is a good market for Canadian fiction south of the border."

The author said that before the war, U.S. publications did not know Canada existed. "That is why I had to leave my native city, Toronto, for the United States. There was no livelihood for a Canadian author in his own country in those days."

PIONEERING DAYS
His latest serial deals with pioneering days on the Canadian plains in the 1870's. He has introduced a few American characters in his story.

"I have never taken a chance of writing a purely Canadian story," he said. "I try to write them so that they can be interesting for both Americans and Canadians."

AUTHOR'S REPLY
The author replied tartly that Vancouver Island had never before received as much publicity as it had from his serial.

Mr. Weston is now considering writing another story. "I've got lots of ideas," he said, "but, for the moment, hoeing up my farm is taking up my time."

He said he had not yet considered writing another story about Vancouver Island. "But I may do that yet," he added.

Officers Elected By Toastmasters

Camoun Toastmasters have elected S. R. Thomson president for the year.

Other officers elected were as follows: Vice-president, Jack Gillis; secretary, Bill Thorpe; treasurer, Lawrence Quigley; and sergeant-at-arms, John Coates. These officers will be installed at the next meeting.

Suggestion was made that the four toastmasters' clubs in the city combine for a Christmas party.

Two Die, Over 90

Two noneagenarians who lived their last 20 years in Victoria passed away this week.

Dead are James Johnson, 96, of 2719 Richmond Road, and Samuel John Ripley, 92, 2423 Dalhousie Street.

Both died at home. Mr. Johnson passed away Wednesday and Mr. Ripley died today.

Mr. Johnson was born in Liverpool, England, while Mr. Ripley came from Portadown, Ireland.

Gideons Rally In Victoria For Convention

Sixth annual Pacific northwest convention of Gideons International opened at the Empress Hotel today with registration, followed by a program of prayer, praise and music.

The organization, best known for its work in getting copies of the Bible in the hands of as many people as possible, is meeting here for three days.

Sunday, Gideons will speak at a number of city churches. Highlight of the gatherings will be a banquet Saturday evening, at which George Abbott, president of Gideons International in Canada, will speak.

Visiting delegates were taken on a sightseeing tour of Victoria and the Malahat this afternoon. Tonight, reports from Gideon camps will be given and Gideon W. B. Wortman will speak on the memorial Bible plan.

His talk will follow a dinner at the Monterey. Also speaking will be John Friesen, president of the Chilliwack camp. His topic will be "Spiritual Preparation and Testimony."

Goldstream Holdup Sham Court Hears

Jury Told He Was To Get $500 For Part In Affair At Goldstream Inn

A claim that the Goldstream Inn hold-up was a "sham" arranged between hotel-owner Ralph Callandine and Stewart Robertson, was made in Assize Court today by Wilfred Hutchinson, one of the three men charged with the armed robbery of the hotel's beer parlor.

The dark-haired accused, called to the witness stand by defence counsel A. P. Dawe, told the jury that Robertson informed him about two weeks before the June 24 hold-up that Callandine wanted a sham hold-up.

"I was to get $500 for taking part in the affair," he testified. "Robertson said the hold-up was to appear convincing because of the insurance."

Hutchinson confessed that he and his two companions, Robertson and Edwin Hingley, went to the hotel armed with guns and knives. He said they tied up hotel manager John Flynn and Mrs. Callandine.

Hutchinson said Callandine walked out of the hotel with them after they had cut the telephone wires and received some money.

'CAME WITH US'

"When we got outside, Ralph (Callandine) said 'Take off your hood and hurry back to the car,'" the witness said. "He came right up to the car with us."

The witness said that before they left, Callandine said: "Get in touch with me in a few days... goodbye, boys."

They proceeded to his Finlayson Arm Road home in the Highland District, where they started to drink rum, the witness testified. Then a car stopped in front of the house.

"I thought it was a friend," said the witness. "It turned out to be the police."

Mariners' Notices Issued By D.O.T.

The Department of Transport here has issued the following notices to mariners:

1. Navy units will conduct firing practice in an area lying between Race Rocks and Discovery Island from 9 in the morning to 4 in the afternoon Friday and Saturday.

2. Alert Rock black can buoy, Broughton Strait, is off station and adrift in the strait.

3. A white fishing boat with trolling poles has been reported adrift near False Bay, northwest towards Sisters and Denman Islands. No one is aboard. Mariners are cautioned to be on the lookout for this potential danger to navigation.

'GOON' TIMES ISSUE GAG FOR OAK BAY KIWANIS

Headlines telling of inauguration of liquor stores and the return of racing in the municipality startled members of the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club at their weekly meeting at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel Thursday evening—but it was all in fun.

As a follow-up to newspaper week, the Victoria Times printed a special "goon" issue—a front page with timely gags and pictures aimed at Kiwanians.

Featured story of the page, in bold headlines, announced that three Kiwanians who are members of the Municipal Council, Fred Robinson, Fred Norris and Jack Rutten, had seized control of Oak Bay for "ulterior" motives.

Air Cadets May Serve In Warning Unit Here

Possibility that senior members of Victoria's air cadet squadron may be recruited for a reserve control and warning reserve squadron here was suggested today by the air cadet commander, Flt. Lt. Kenneth Kenton.

His statement followed a check of local facilities by Sqdn. Ldr. David F. Manders, M.B.E., officer commanding the recently formed A.C. and W. 2442 Squadron at Vancouver.

If arrangements prove acceptable, the R.C.A.F. probably will establish the reserve radar unit to operate at Patricia Bay, but to train in the city.

Flt. Lt. Kenton said the No. 89 (Kinsmen) air cadet squadron was "very willing for the air force to use our facilities at Macaulay Camp."

He thought setting up of the reserve warning unit might be the first step towards a full auxiliary squadron here—something a group of local air force veterans have sought for some time.

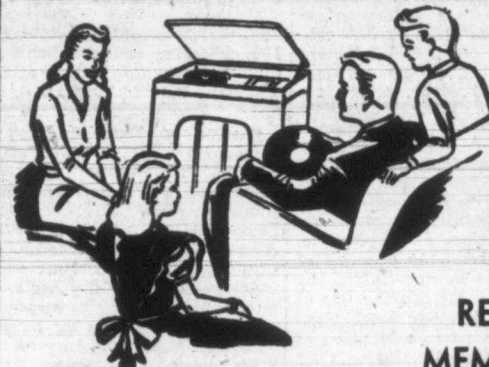

All ex-R.C.A.F. personnel interested in joining the control and warning unit are asked to send their names, addresses and phone numbers to Officer Commanding No. 2442 Sqdn., R.C.A.F. Station, Sea Island, Vancouver. A brief outline of service experience should be included.

Students Leave To Visit 'Neighbors'

Sixty students from Victoria's two Roman Catholic schools, St. Ann's Academy and St. Louis College, left today aboard Mv. Chinook to spend week-end with students in Port Angeles. Trip was planned to return goodwill visit made by American students here in May. Football game, dance and sightseeing tour have been arranged for Victorians. Party includes 35 boys and 25 girls.

YES, WE HAD RAIN October Record Leaves Weatherman Unruffled

By DAVE STOCK

October has yet to reach the half-way mark in its current 31-day run, but already it has provided this city with more rain than is customary for its entire duration.

No less an authority than Bill Burton, the man atop Gonzales, will verify this fact for it is from his meteorological station that this news comes.

"Rain?" puzzled Weatherman Burton when queried about the matter today. "Yes, I do believe we have had some rain. But just a minute, I'll get the books."

Mr. Burton whistled as he worked. He found what he wanted in half a minute.

"On the first and second days of the month," Mr. Burton observed in a cheery way, "there was no rain. Since then, there has been some rain every day up to and including Thursday, the 12th."

"The heaviest rain," he continued, "was recorded on the ninth—that was Thanksgiving—when during a 24-hour period there was 1.44 inch."

Doing some fast mental arithmetic as he talked, he concluded, "So far this month there has been 3.11 inches of rain—hmm. The average for October," he said turning pages, "is—let me see—here it is—2.77 inch."

"Now what else do you want to know?"

"What about sunshine?"

"That was nothing to boast about either."

"Still a long way to the month's end," he observed. "Weather could change. Then again, we could get a lot more rain."

Old-Fashioned Recipes
For Modern Housewives
By PENNY SAVER

Hot off the press and bubbling over with new recipes... one of which I want you to see today... is the Mennonite Community Cookbook. The book is filled with family recipes with simple but wholesome old-fashioned country cookery. The John C. Winston Co. Limited are the publishers and the retail price on the cookbook is $4.50.

The author of the book, Mary Emma Showalter, has collected 1,400 tempting recipes and with illustrations and color plates to further enhance the goodness of mouth-watering foods, you'll fairly drown the family with new dishes.

While riding down in the elevator in our building the other day, I asked a fellow passenger if she thought it about time for

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Student, 19, Secretly Engaged to Woman,
11 Years Older and Divorced

Dear Mary Haworth: The problem confronting me hinges on age. I am 19 years old and a graduate student at a large university. The girl to whom I am secretly engaged is 30 years old. Despite our wide age difference our relationship is completely compatible.

My fiancée is an instructor at the university where I am pursuing my studies. She was married once many years ago, but the marriage failed due to sexual incompatibility. I have never discerned any evidence to indicate that she could have been at fault, for her nature is warm and tender.

We have many mutual friends as well as many common interests in the academic sphere. But our parents are opposed to the situation and insist that we are almost immoral, in that we are together constantly at social functions and elsewhere. I envision a complete and happy life wedded to her, but you see, we are facing difficulty with our parents and a few narrow-minded individuals.

I am wondering if a disapproving attitude on the part of others would disaffect our love? Is there a possibility of society molding us against each other? Please state your honest opinion.

NO PAT ANSWER
ON AGE ANGLE

Dear A. L.: I am trying to imagine how you manage to qualify for "graduate" courses in the university if you are only 19 years old. Presumably a graduate student has a college diploma, or the equivalent of four years' college work behind him. But 19 is the average age

Children's Photograph Exhibit

An exhibition of children's photographs will be sponsored by Junior Auxiliary of St. Joseph's Hospital on Nov. 2, 3 and 4, on the second floor of T. Eaton Co. Photographs were taken by G. F. Barker, clinical photographer of St. Joseph's Hospital. Proceeds will be given to the children's ward.

Mrs. J. O'Connor was named convener and Miss Betty Short, co-convener of the affair, at a meeting in the nurses' home.

Miss Win Elliott, vice-president, presided and tentative plans were made for a rummage sale in Prince Robert House in December. Miss Rosemary Conaghan was appointed convener. Miss Betty Short will convene the children's annual Christmas tea in the nurses' home in December, and Mrs. J. O'Connor was named delegate to annual convention of the B.C. Association of Hospital Auxiliaries in Hotel Vancouver on Oct. 27.

Handicraft Sale—Date of the sale of handicrafts made by blind citizens of Victoria was set for November 3 in Robert House at a meeting of Women's Auxiliary to Victoria Branch, Canadian National Institute For the Blind. Mrs. H. Weidman presided and reports of visiting and radio committees were heard.

Prizes, Jubilee Hospital Auxiliary Bridge-Tea Presented By Mrs. Wallace

In her first official act as new chataine of Government House, Mrs. Clarence Wallace yesterday presented prizes at the annual bridge and tea sponsored by Women's Auxiliary to Royal Jubilee Hospital in the Nurses' Home.

Mrs. Wallace wore for the occasion a smoke grey fine wool suit with side paneled skirt. Her matching grey turban was ornamented with soft grey veiling. She wore sable furs.

Seated with her at the head table, which was attractively decorated with crescent-shaped vases filled with bright flowers and flanked by lighted candles, were Mrs. J. Phethean, auxiliary president; Mrs. Stanley Okell, Mrs. E. Sheppard, Mrs. P. E. Corby, Mrs. F. J. Boughton and Miss Ruth MacLean.

Arrangements of deep red, white and bronze chrysanthemums were used to decorate the lounge and to centre the table, where Mrs. D. A. Turnbull, Mrs. P. A. Gibbs, Mrs. G. Duck and Mrs. R. W. Hibbertson presided at the silver urns.

Mrs. J. L. Hobbs and Mrs. George Masters were in charge of tea arrangements, assisted by Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. C. R. Scharf, Mrs. V. G. Pinhorn, Mrs. A. Robertson, Mrs. L. S. Greenhill, Mrs. W. G. Thorpe, Mrs. B. Porritt and Mrs. R. Hallas.

Forty-nine tables were in play, a number of parties were arranged in private homes and many guests arrived for the tea hour. A sum of approximately $650 was realized.

A bouquet of red rosebuds was presented to Mrs. Wallace by Miss Mary Church, member of the nurses' training school. Miss Ruth MacLean accompanied Mrs. Wallace to the tea.

Mrs. Phethean, assisted by Mrs. Murray Anderson, received the guests; Mrs. H. B. Nash was in charge of decorations; Mrs. H. G. Southin and Mrs. A. Masters, drawings; Mrs. W. G. Crawford, Mrs. Corby and Miss Curry, gifts, and Mrs. F. J. Boughton and Mrs. Nash, door receipts.

Members of the probationers' class at the hospital, in their mist grey uniforms and crisp white aprons, acted as servitors.

Church Supper Committee Named

Roast turkey and ham will be a feature on the menu when St. David's Women's Guild hold annual church supper Oct. 20 at 5.30 in St. David's-by-the-Sea Hall.

The affair was planned at a meeting of the guild in the home of Mrs. H. Ranger. Mrs. K. M. Lewis presided.

In charge of tables will be Mesdames J. Wyper, Noel Andrew, B. Dyer, A. Taylor, A. N. Westwood, P. Williams, J. Reynolds.

Mrs. J. Willmot will pour tea, and Mrs. C. Hill with Mrs. J. Hutton will serve dessert. On duty in the kitchen will be Mesdames H. Ranger, G. Rickard, F. Pottage and Hodgson. Mrs. H. Miller and Mrs. H. Stevenson will be in charge of door receipts.

Following supper, colored films will be shown by H. Whitfield and several musical numbers given under direction of Archie Miller.

Members decided to hold a pre-Christmas bazaar in December.

Mrs. Reynolds, recently returned from a four-month trip to England and the continent, and Mrs. Stevenson home from a visit in eastern Canada and United States were welcomed. Mrs. Ranger served tea, assisted by Mrs. Rickard.

Honeymooners Return This Week

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Campbell Small, nee Marion Alice McCulloch, married recently in Belmont United Church, return this week from a honeymoon in United States. They will live at 1810 Hollywood Crescent. Former member of South Park School teaching staff, the bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. McCulloch, Belmont Avenue. Mr. Small is son of James Small, Glasgow, and the late Mrs. Small. Registered Nurses' Problems Discussed At Comox Meeting

Vancouver Island District, Registered Nurses' Association of British Columbia held its fall meeting last week at Comox Hospital, with Plateau Chapter as hostess group.

District president, Sister Mary Claire of Lourdes Hospital, Campbell River, presided. Fifty-two nurses representing the five chapters took part in a lively discussion of current problems, led by Mrs. Marian Botsford, assistant registrar.

It was pointed out that in some countries nursing registration is directed by the Department of Labor or the Department of the Interior, but in Canada nurses themselves have set up their own councils, and gradually evolved standards, requirements, and qualifications which have been legally protected since 1918. In 1947 the constitution was changed and a testing program approved whereby nurses from other countries may be tested and qualify for B.C. registration.

Mrs. Botsford explained how a nurse's professional status is thus legally recognized and safeguarded.

Problems relating to shortage of graduate nurses in the smaller hospitals were also discussed, and affiliation with the small hospital may soon form part of the required curriculum in nurses' training.

An itinerant instructor, Miss Irene Trout, is now conducting three-day institutes, giving refresher courses for graduate nurses.

Oct. 21 at the Public Market, proceeds to go to help with renovation of the Sunday School hall. Donations for the same may be left at the church, 528 Fisgard Street, with further information from Miss Isabel Lee, E 1948, after 5 in the evening.

Home Economists Hear Chief Nutritionist From Ottawa

Organization and function of the Nutrition Division, Department of Health and Welfare, Ottawa, were outlined by Miss Mary McBeth, chief nutritionist, in a visit to Victoria Home Economics Association Wednesday evening, in the Art Centre.

The division, which has been in existence for 12 years, was organized as a result of recommendations made by the Canadian Council on Nutrition—a voluntary body which met under the Deputy Minister of Health and Welfare and consisted of representatives from the provinces and other professions as well as the Department of Agriculture, she said.

Its original functions were to assist war industries to set up adequate nutritional standards for their employees, assist home makers to understand the value of proper nutrition for their families, and generally emphasize the relation of proper nutrition to national health.

Main functions of the nutrition division at present are maintaining a research laboratory for conducting surveys and carrying out projects in such institutions as hospitals, jails, penitentiaries, children's homes. These are carried out at the request of the management, and consultants are supplied upon request to make recommendations on group feeding, she explained.

There also is an information section which deals with the printing and distribution of pamphlets, results of surveys and other new literature in the field of nutrition.

"Canada now has a Dominion Provincial Committee on Nutrition with representatives from the 10 provinces, which meets annually," she concluded.

M. Harness, Mrs. M. Waldon; ten-minute speech, Mrs. McKenzie, vote of thanks, Mrs. M. Kelly.

Mrs. P. Rayment, E 9705, or Mrs. A. Thompson, E 9938, are in charge of membership for those wishing to attend.

Chinese United—Members of the Chinese United Church Young Peoples' Union met with Ken Lee, president, in charge of the program. It was decided that a rummage sale will be held on

Member Of Pioneer Family Bride Of Earle K. Kenyon

A classic frock in soft taupe brocade silk was chosen by a descendant of a well-known pioneer family, for her wedding Saturday afternoon.

The bride, Laura Angela Morning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford De V. Macklin, is the great granddaughter of the late Mrs. Jane De Veulle of this city. Her groom, Earle Kitchener Kenyon, is the son of Mrs. G. Eric Seymour, Albert Street.

Queen of Peace Church, Esquimalt, was decorated with bouquets of fluffy pink and white chrysanthemums for the ceremony performed by Father Lewis MacLellan. James Macklin acted as altar boy.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride completed her ensemble with crisp white hat and gloves, and carried a bouquet of rhyrium lilies.

Her only attendant, Mrs. E. H. Hibbertson, wore turquoise blue, accented with mist grey accessories and bronze chrysanthemums in her bouquet.

James Russell, Nanaimo, was best man and Arthur Smith, the usher, M. Kokran sang "Panis Angelicus," and Mrs. Arthur Smith was at the organ.

Rev. MacLellan gave the toast to the bride at a reception in the Macklin home, where white chrysanthemums were arranged throughout the rooms.

Later the newlyweds left on a motoring trip up-island, the bride wearing a deep rose suit, hat and accessories in blue, and orchids en corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenyon will live in Kellworth Apartments, Oak Bay.

500 Prisoners At Wonsan Executed

Report Not Yet Officially Confirmed
Tells Of Slayings By Red Koreans

Reuter's correspondent John Colless sent from a Japanese hospital the following description of liberated Wonsan, former Communist base on the east coast of North Korea. Colless was injured Wednesday night when an aircraft hit a sea wall and crashed on landing. Two were killed and four passengers, including Colless, were injured.

By JOHN COLLESS

ASHIYA, Japan (Reuter)—Townpeople in Wonsan claim Communists four days ago beheaded 500 Korean prisoners, including women and children.

They say the victims had been imprisoned because they "did not like Communists."

When the city's fall seemed inevitable, the Communists executed them and buried the bodies in the sands of the river. The report has not been officially confirmed.

Communist artillery, mortar and machine-gun fire still was falling intermittently in parts of the town as I left.

South Korean artillery batteries, from emplacements within the city, fired yesterday over the heads of the people in the streets at North Koreans who were only a few thousand yards away.

Wonsan is a city of ruins. Acres of the residential area are flattened, smoking ashes. Big factories are gaunt hollow skeletons or piles of rubble. A large oil refinery was wrecked by air bombing and the oil reservoirs are a tangled mass of steel sheeting.

North Korean soldiers, of whom there are many in Wonsan, have given American interrogators a strong impression that the Communist army is at its limits of manpower reserve and that the troops will fight has slumped.

Most prisoners have been soldiers only a few weeks and know little about even elementary soldiering. Of a large batch taken yesterday, the one with the longest service had been in the army six months. Several had been in only six days.

A captured 19-year-old lieutenant who commanded a machine-gun detachment had three months' service. He had "stripped" a machine-gun only three times during that time and he knew nothing about other arms.

A captain said one defending battalion was commanded by a lieutenant because of a shortage of officers. The youngest prisoner was a boy of 15.

Prisoners said the Communists initially had conscripted all males between 19 and 37, but recently extended the age limit to 55.

Ss. Nootka Sails For Peru

Sturdy old coastal freighter Nootka, which plied B.C. waters for years under red and white checkered flag of C.P.R.'s B.C. Coast Service, left Victoria Thursday for Peru. Manned by Peruvian crew employed by her new owners, 2,069-ton ship sails past Ogden Point. Built at Port Arthur, Ont., in 1919, Nootka will pick up cargo of lumber at Portland, en route to Lima.

Pearson Sees Alliance As Bright Peace Sign

NEW YORK (CP)—L. B. Pearson said Thursday night that one of the brightest signs for eventual world peace is the partnership which has grown up among Britain, the U.S. and Canada.

Canada's External Affairs Minister said that while the three countries have other partnerships, that informal partnership makes for special opportunities and responsibilities.

In an address to the Pilgrims Society of the United States, Pearson said the world is going through a "period of great conflict" when there are moments of perplexity in the search for security and peace.

One of the brightest of reassuring signs that the task is not hopeless, Pearson said, "is the new and strong partnership which, in our time, has grown up between the United Kingdom, the United States and Canada." Pearson said it is important at this time to examine the partnership while facing the realization that the security and opportunity for progress are "again threatened by dark and powerful reactionary forces."

APPRECIATE FORTUNE

Canada appreciated her good fortune in escaping the "pushing and squeezing" to which countries in less fortunate parts of the world were subjected by their "powerful neighbors."

"We hope that in Washington they also appreciate their good fortune in having neighbors who are happy to tell them, frankly and in the American idiom, when they are going off the rails in their international policies."

Canada's position between Britain and U.S. is one of opportunity and responsibility, he said, "neatly symbolized by our currency which now moves freely and easily between the dollar and the pound, but is certainly influenced by both of them."

Canada hopes that the U.S. will realize it is difficult for Canada to keep pace with a rig power.

"There may even be occasional moments when the course may seem to us to be a trifle zigzag but we know in Canada that the general direction is right and the goal is good," said Pearson.

Orphans Created Problem In Japan

At the end of the World War there were 28,000 war orphans in Japan and the country had great difficulty in finding homes for them, said Yasuo Tsujimura at the weekly Optimist Club luncheon Thursday.

Mr. Tsujimura, an assistant in the Ministry of Child Welfare at Tokyo, is in Canada on a United Nations social welfare fellowship.

There was no government agency established for the job of looking after the orphans but the United Nations stepped in and arranged placement of the children, he said.

The speaker graduated from Tokyo University in 1937 and has been in his present position for the last four years.

ONE MINUTE NEWS

ABOUT

JOHNS-MANVILLE

TREE ROOTS LIKE ARAB'S CAMEL

Remember? Once the camel was permitted to put his head in the tent it wasn't long before he'd edged in all the way and forced the Arab outside? Tree roots are like that. Once the tiniest tendrils find its way in through a faulty drain joint, it isn't long before the whole sewer line is clogged with roots.

Johns-Manville make a white pipe called Transite House Connection Pipe that overcomes this trouble. Each joint in this pipe is sealed with a "Taper-Tite" coupling that guards against root penetration. Transite is made of asbestos and cement; it cannot rot or rust and provides a free-flowing, continuously efficient connection from house to sewer or septic tank.

There are other decided advantages in using J-M Transite Pipe. Write for details. Johns-Manville, 1206 Homer St., Vancouver, or see your J-M dealer. V.I. Hardwood Floor Co. Ltd., 2100 Douglas St., G 7314.

ASSAILANT HANGS SELF

Woman Tortured In 'Strangling Machine'

NICE, France (AP)—A middle-aged landlady told today how she had been kidnapped and held prisoner under the threat of a "strangling machine" by a tenant who hanged himself after his arrest.

Mme. Germaine Kurer said her 48-hour adventure began Saturday afternoon, when she went to one of her two villas at Villefranche-sur-Mer to sign a sales agreement with the tenant, a well-known business man of Nice named Jacques Labatut.

After the signing, Labatut took her to the garage to show her some repairs he said had to be made on the roof. He threw her into a lean-to, threatened her with a revolver and made her write a note to keep her family from worrying about her absence.

Next morning he put her in his "strangling machine"—a steel noose attached to a clockwork device. Any movement she made, he told her, would slip a ratchet and choke her at once; if she kept still, the clockwork would close the noose slowly. He made her sign an L.O.U. for 1,200,000 francs (about $4,000).

Sunday night, he took the machine off, but put it on again Monday morning. He made her dress in a man's suit, put her in the rear seat of a car with a scarf to hide the noose around her neck, and drove her to Nice.

All morning he tried to cash the L.O.U., but failed.

Finally he released her, threatening to kill her if she told the police. She had him arrested. Wednesday he tried to escape from prison by pretending to hang himself, and then attacking the guards who came to save him. When this failed, he did hang himself.

SKATER INJURED

William Shiprue, 26 of 1116 North Park Street, was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital Wednesday night for a cut hand suffered while skating at the Memorial Arena.

HAIRCUTS AT 35 CENTS IN FLORIDA TOWN

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)—Price of haircuts dropped to 35 cents today as the town's three barbers waged an energetic price warfare.

Haircuts cost $1 Thursday. The barbers said they didn't know who started cutting prices first. Each said privately that "the other two would have to end it" before prices would go up.

Motorists came from miles around to take advantage of the 35-cent haircuts.

SELECT QUALITY BUYS

It isn't often that one dealer can offer a complete selection of quality cars—in all price ranges—to the buying public. Certainly, you can buy almost anything you have in mind—here and there—but, from WILSON'S That is important.

When you stop thinking that "where you buy" is important you can start writing wise-cracks about used automobiles.

The following list of used cars and trucks we present is backed by a reputation that is UNCHALLENGED in the field of automobile merchandising.

MAGNIFICENT OCEAN VIEW FROM BEAUTIFUL UPLANDS HEIGHTS
No satisfactory medium can describe the beauty of ocean, islands and Mount Baker from every wide front window and gracious patio of this home. Architect designed in miniature Gothic motif with imitation mullioned leaded windows and battlements, set high on terraced lawn, rockeries and flowered borders. This beautiful home suggests the English Manor type surrounded by oaks, pines, and maple. Wide entrance hall, oak stairway, half-way window and landing, large French leaded doors each way is impressive and inviting. Beautiful living-dining room 30 x 18 is unusually artistic, with 10-foot leaded window, part beamed ceiling and 21 x 12, also with large leaded window. Through pantry to family kitchen, tiled sink, cabinet cupboards, cooler, etc., and wired for range. Two-piece bathroom, clothes and power room, etc., complete. Dressing and well-arranged first floor.
Upstairs are four exceptionally large bedrooms off a central hall. One large bedroom has pink tile fireplace, half paneled door two wide picture windows and through hall, lovely living-room 13 x 20 with granite fireplace, family-size dining-room, kitchen and bathroom. The FORMER MISS FREY

By Edwin Ruff

Copyright 1939 by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Ede Flood, the former Miss Frey, has never been forgiven by her father, Cornelius Frey, for eloping with a fortune hunter. Now living in Bermuda, Ede returns home from a party late one night and finds a telegram waiting for her. It states that her father is critically ill and she is to return home at once.

IV

Edith Flood sat straight, almost tensed, in her seat on the plane, paying little attention to the sea and none at all to the other passengers. She was thinking, just now, that Peter had been surprisingly considerate. He should have been. But normally he suited when anything interrupted what he was pleased to call his routine. Now he had accepted Ede's departure almost gracefully, even though it meant that he'd more or less have to shift for himself.

Ede feared things would be in a mess until she returned, and pointed this out to Peter. But Peter, asserted, cheerfully enough, that he could manage. There was, naturally, no question of his accompanying her. Aside from the fact that he could be of no help, he occupied a prominent place in old Cornelius Frey's Black Book.

Ede's thoughts swung to the things that might lie ahead. Now that the first shock of the news had worn off, she found herself not inclined to worry too much. It was serious, of course, or her brother Jeffrey, nervous and somewhat hysterical, wouldn't have wired. But there was a chance that it wasn't terribly serious. When anything went wrong, Jeff Frey was always quite likely to go off the deep end. It could be that he had sent the telegram without consulting anyone, fearing things that were never destined to happen.

STUBBORN FIGHTER

For her mind rejected the possibility of Cornelius Frey's dying. Hard, wiry, implacable, he would fight death as he had fought life, with a kind of cold reasoned fury. There was a powerhouse of strength, she knew, in his tough lean body. If any man could pull through an illness, even a grave one, it would be her father.

As for her younger brother and sister, Myron and Jennifer, Ede scarcely gave them a thought. Myron was the dreamy impractical type, with vague blue eyes and an indefinite offhand manner. Jeffrey would certainly have found him no help in a crisis. And bright-haired little Jennifer was only a kid. Suddenly Ede smiled. She was constantly forgetting that she hadn't been home in three years. Jenn would be quite grown up now, over 19. And remembering her, it occurred to Ede that Jenn might be something of a handful in the remote event of anything happening to her father. Jenn was eager, strong-willed, selfish, with something of Cornelius Frey's own strength in her character.

Well, there they were, thought Ede. And Jeffrey had considered it necessary to wire her, who was by way of being the black sheep. But there was no use worrying and planning until she got there and knew the worst, or the best. So she sat in her seat, wondering how her father would receive her. Ten to one Jeff had sent that telegram without the knowledge and approval of old Cornelius.

Jeffrey Frey met her at the airport. For all his broad shoulders, he looked thin and peaked. There was a harassed expression on his sallow face. Ede's first thought was that Jeff had grown older, much older than the three years since she had seen him seemed to warrant. "Well, Ede," he said, kissing her. "This is a rotten homecoming for you."

"It's serious, then?" Ede said quickly.

"Just about as bad as it could be," said Jeff. "Come on. The car's this way."

He bundled her into it and they started for the city.

"Now then, Jeff," Ede said, "let's have it."

Jeffrey's tired face tightened.

"He's cracked up, Ede. It seemed to happen all at once. The doctors say complications. But his heart's the worst. He—can't possibly pull through."

"Does he," she asked hesitantly, "know that I'm coming?"

Jeff flashed her a quick look, then turned his eyes to the road again. "He asked me to send you that wire."

"Oh," said Ede, a little weakly. Even in the shadow of the grave, it would not be in Cornelius Frey's nature to forgive.

The Frey house on upper Fifth Avenue was just as Ede remembered it. Gray and forbidding from without; high-ceilinged, cool and dark within.

Myron had not changed. He was as vague and offhand as ever. He greeted Ede casually, almost as if she had never been away. But Jennifer came forward quickly, threw strong sun-browned arms around her sister.

"Oh, darling," she said, "I'm so glad you've come."

TALL, STRAIGHT

My little sister, Ede thought, seems to have the makings of a nice kid. She held Jennifer off and looked at her. The angular figure she remembered had resolved itself into slim willowy lines. Jenn was tall and straight, coppery-haired, and with vivid blue eyes. But the eager look was still there though, obviously, Jenn tried to conceal it beneath a thin veil of sophistication. And Jenn's mouth was still small and determined.

"You've grown up, baby," Ede said. "And you're very beautiful." And Jenn's smile was like a light, turned on suddenly.

"You'd better go right up, Ede," said Jeff. "He's been asking for you constantly."

Ede went up the wide circular staircase slowly. A pleasant-faced nurse in a starched white uniform met her at the top.

(To Be Continued.)

Held By 4 Men, Kicked On Head, Witness Says

Richard P. Hudlin, young colored man, told Magistrate H. C. Hall in Saanich police court Thursday how he was held down by four young men and kicked on the head and body on Sept. 14.

He was testifying in the trial of Ball and Murly Kudra, young East Indians, charged with assaulting him. Hudlin said there was a young white boy and another East Indian with them.

Trial was adjourned one week to bring Hudlin's boss, identified as Charlie Bakur, to testify. A counter charge against Hudlin of assaulting Ball Kudra was also remanded.
